Tonight the topic will be "The Unpardonable Sin."
Wednesday afternoon, "The Works of the Devil;" Wednesday evening, "Excuses."

Today is being observed as a day of prayer. At 7:00 o'clock this morning was held a praise and prayer service at the tabernacle. At 9:30 prayer meetings were held in the homes in the city. This afternoon at the Tabernacle Mr. Lowry spoke again on "The Second Coming of Christ." A deep feeling of the presence and power of God's Holy Spirit pervades the entire city.

Yesterday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock Mr. Lowry addressed the students of the high school. His subject was "Character Building," and he emphasized the need of sterling qualities in the life of every young man and young woman in the world's work of the present day.

A large audience assembled last night to hear the evangelist deal with the amusement question again.

The special musical numbers were "Tis Midnight And On Olive's Brow," by the male quartet; and "The Spirit's Calls," by Professor Moody.

Mr. Lowry's text was, Heb. 11:24-26. He said in part:

"There are many other things used by the Devil to lead people into captivity than the three things that were spoken about in my sermon last Friday night. Perhaps my topic might be broadly called 'The Devil's Bid for a Man.' He bids for every man's life. Moses was brought up in every luxury of Pharaoh's court, and the Devil made a high bid for his life. "Now Moses sacrificed many things in his choice. He sacrificed the advantages of being called the son of Pharaoh's daughter. He was not satisfied to sacrifice his principles of righteousness for a little political prestige and power.

"Every man has to make this choice between the enticements of the world and the way of righteousness. It takes strength and energy to say 'No' in the right way in the face of temptation.

"Again Moses sacrificed the enjoyment of the pleasures of sin. There is a certain amount of pleasure in sin, but it is because those who enjoy them know nothing higher. The man or woman who is truly born of God is not attracted by the siren music of the world, because Jesus Christ is filling their hearts to the exclusion of sinful things.

"Moses might have been called a millionaire, but he would not sacrifice his principles for wealth. Money will never satisfy you, men. If you get it honestly and use it rightly. God will bless you in it, but money itself cannot satisfy you.

"But Moses gained identity with the people of God. Maybe you think that wasn't worth much, but the world always thinks that.

"Moses also gained God's favor. The Devil probably often tempted him to doubt his wisdom, but when God needed a man to lead out his people he called up this man whom he could trust.

"He also gained eternal life. He has been thousands of years with God. He looked to eternity for his reward. You can choose the pleasures of this life or the joys of eternity, as you will. "Some of you people are going to make your final choice, for eternity in this meeting. Let me remind you of a few things:

"The pleasures of sin are only for a season.

"There is danger of your being cut off in your sins.

"There is great danger of hardening your heart. These truths will not always touch your heart as they do now. You can now become a Christian if you will. If you go on resisting, the time will come when you could not if you would.

Lowryisms.

"The chief ambition of some of our girls is to be a 'sassy belle' and it takes only a little brass and a tongue to make a bell."

"A dude is the missing link between a man and a monkey. A dude is often a cigarette going down the street with a fire at one end and a fool at the other. The cigarette smoke pours out of his nose and ears and eyes, for you know their heads are hollow, and the smoke can come out most anywhere."

"It doesn't take any courage or moral backbone to go with the crowd."

"That minister of the gospel who will defend these worldly amusements that are doing so much to damn the world today, is a jackass and hasn't sense enough to pound sand in a rat-hole."

"Money never satisfies, you spend the first half of your life getting other people's money, and the last half trying to keep others from getting yours. A lot of people get all the money they can and can all they get."

"A lot of you fellows out here in the west are making money by the bucketful and going to Hell by cart-loads."

"A lot of you fellows would try to take your money with you into the next world if you were not afraid it would melt your hands."

"Some of you people are determined to hold onto these sins though they damn your souls in Hell. And when you get to Hell you can tell yourself that you were card table or dance hall-damned. You won't get much comfort out of it then."

Of Interest to Farmers.

The last issue of the Scientific American has the following to say relative to John I. Weber's new patent draper:

DRAPER CANVAS.—J. I. Weber, 106 Van Buren avenue, Moscow, Idaho, The engraving illustrating this invention shows a plan view of the improvement. In the use of the ordinary draper, straw or grain stalks are very liable to become caught between transverse slats and the canvas, thus choking the elevator and increasing the draft. There is great liability of breakage, and the machine must be stopped until the straw can be pulled out. In the present canvas invention the inventor provides a draper canvas for use in harvesting machines for conveying the cut grain, especially designed to prevent any catching of the stalks in the draper, with a consequent increase of draft and liability to breakage.

A Testimony.

The statement was made by Mr. Lowry at his meeting Sunday night that Pastor Charles T. Russell of Brooklyn, N. Y., denies the doctrines of the Bible. After reading Pastor Russell's "Studies in the Scriptures" and finding them in harmony with and upholding the doctrines of the Bible I have a love for God and His beloved Son our Redeemer that I am willing to give up every earthly tie and interest now, to gain the Heavenly Crown of eternal life. No such interest in my Heavenly Father's plans was thought of before this reading and my own investigation and enlightenment teaches me that Pastor Russell defends and upholds the entire Bible as no one else does to my knowledge.

Here are Pastor Russell's books:
"The Devine Plan of the Ages."
"Thy Kingdom Come."
"The Day of Veagance."
"The Atonement Between God and Man."
"The New Creation."

If the above volumes are read with a sincere desire to know of the doctrine and the truth on many of the dark sayings of the Bible, they will give one a rich blessing in stronger faith and love to God and His beloved Son. Please read 2 Cor. 13:5 and let us investigate before we condemn. Robt. E. Tyson.

Praying Pastor Shot At.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 23.—Half an hour after church was dismissed last night an attempt was made to murder the Rev. J. Frank Norris of the First Baptist church. Two bullets, fired through a window, missed his head by two inches as he sat at his study desk with his head bowed in prayer.

Rev. Norris has been a dominant factor in the morality campaign here, urging stricter "blue" laws. A few days ago he was denounced at a mass meeting by Mayor Davis who declared Norris' charges that enforcement of the laws were neglected were untrue.

Cheap Light

LOOK at a common lamp and then at a 16-candle power electric light. It would require several lamps to give the same light. Figure on the basis of service rendered and electric lights are the cheapest lights. They are also the best. They don't explode, are always ready, and there are no lamps to fill.

YOU ARE ### IGNORANT!

There is just one way to detect diseased meat. It must be inspected at the time it is slaughtered. You can't tell by looking at it. Hogs, cattle and chickens are all subject to tuberculosis. Tuberculosis is transmitted from the meat we eat to the human system. Tuberculosis kills more people every year than any other disease. Why run the risk when you can buy inspected meat?

WANTED

I WANT WORK. My business is selling goods. I make daily and weekly visits to the homes of the best people in Moscow and Latah county, and talk to them about the business of my employers. I have thousands of friends, and they sit down in their homes by the evening fire and give me their time. The whole family listens to me. They talk about me, to be sure, and sometimes the neighbors come over and take me to their homes.

I talk to them about the news. I tell them about what is going on all over the world, and especially in their home county. I do more than that; I talk to them about the money they spend, and tell them about all the big bargains in the stores; tell them where they can get the most for their money. Every time a merchant has a special sale and puts on low prices I call special attention to it. Sometimes I devote half my time to this one subject, and the whole family, from the baby up, listen, for they are all interested. They like to know where they can buy shoes or clothes or groceries the cheapest, and I can always tell them.

I spend all my time visiting, and the queer thing is that I can visit, at the same time, hundreds of homes. I am not happy unless I am busy, and it takes a lot of work to keep me occupied. I want to work for progressive merchants. I never work for the other kind. My name is WEEKLY STAR-MIRROR. I have a big boy, almost as big as myself, who is only three months old, and while I work only once a week, he gets out and goes every day; he is the most ambitious youngster you ever saw—gads all the time. Like all parents, I am much concerned about this boy, and I hope he will grow up without disgracing his family. Plenty of work will keep him straight. I want to keep him talking about the progressive business men of Moscow, because an ambitious, interesting youngster, that talks to people every day, will make a fine salesman for the merchant who wants to sell goods.

There is a valuable suggestion in the above story. THE STAR-MIRROR will be your best salesman if you will talk to people about your business through its columns. Think it over. See if it will not pay you to employ this salesman. Let it tell people about what you have to sell.
