International Bible Students' Convention Program.

TALK BY PASTOR RUSSELL

Closing Session to Be Held This Evening in the Academy Theater.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

LONDON, June 29, 1912.

Charity and patriotism joined hands Wednesday, and in the twin noble causes London turned itself into a city of roses. It was Alexandria day, and in no happier fashion could that memorable morning just fifty years ago, when a Sea King's daughter came to win the hearts of a nation, have been commemorated. The symbol of the wild rose has eclipsed in public appeal other celebrations, which in themselves have had the wider sanction of nationality, and it has made the day one of note in the story of charitable endeavor. It was "Roses, roses all the way." Every buttonhole had its dainty pink and white cambric star, every bloom its delicate pony, and the children wound garlands of blossoms round their subnuptials.

Ten thousand famous and beautiful society women held the city up to ransom. They were wearing pretty and simple costumes of white, with hats trimmed with flowers and bands of the Danish colors, over the betrothal of Alice and Bertie. They shouldered to carry the baskets. But their most dangerous weapon was a gracious, winning smile.

Queen's Drive Memorable Event.

Queen Alexandra's drive through the streets with people waiting for hours to see her and to cheer and wave her roses was quite a memorable event, and one specially noticed that so many of the waiting crowd were elderly people, some of whom were possibly reviving their recollections of the slim, dark-haired bride, who was driven through these streets half a century ago. There is an entry in the diary of the late Duchess of Teck (she was first cousin to the Queen of Denmark), which may be quoted.

"The Queen—After luncheon we waited anxiously for the arrival of Christian (the future King of Denmark) on his way back to Copenhagen, having established Alix at Osborne. At 3 we welcomed him, and upward for three hours sat talking over the betrothal of Alix and Bertie. We have much to hear and discuss, and while fully sharing his happiness at the marriage, we could enter into his feelings at leaving Alix then for the first time."

More Than $150,000 Taken In.

According to report, more than $300,000 was taken in the streets of London by the women selling penny roses. It would be interesting to know how many roses are really sold. If you take them at a penny a rose, more than 6,000,000 were sold, but as the prices paid really ran from a penny to a £3 note it is obvious that the number was very much less. If we take sixpence as the average paid for each rose, there would be a million roses in the streets.

It was certainly an extraordinary tribute to the unwavering popularity of Queen Alexandra. As a sight the event is the prettiest London has known. These white cambric roses tinged with pink were pretty in themselves and charming when strung in festoons around motor cars or hung over shoulders or twined around tall hats, or even in a bouquet stuck through the top of a tall hat, as really were sold. If you take them in Piccadilly. In the labyrinth of the city, these wild roses peeped out in a shy and sudden way, just as the real blossoms of the country this June.

It was pleasant to see the modest little symbol sprouting from behind the metal buttons of a policeman's breast, and in the golden hat bands of the silent, heavy men who drive the royal mail

A. E. BURGESS,
Prominent in list of speakers to address convention.

The 4,000 delegates to the international Bible students' convention, who gathered here from all parts of this country and Canada for a stay of one week, will today observe "Holiness Day." The closing session of the convention will be held this evening in the Academy Theater, combining a symposium and love feast, and tomorrow morning early many of the delegates will leave the city for their homes.

The big meeting of today will be held at 3 o'clock in the theater, when Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle and president of the association will deliver an address on "The Bible Punishment for Sin." This service is held especially for the general public, and it is the hope of the leaders of the association that hundreds of persons in no way identified with the convention will attend. The public will be given the preference of seats until 2:50 o'clock, after which the delegates to the convention will be accommodated.

The first service of the day will be held at 9 o'clock, when songs will be sung and testimony given by delegates. This will be followed at 10 o'clock by a discourse by Frank Detwiler of Pittsburgh, and one hour later O. L. Sullivan of Nashville, Tenn., will make an address on the work of the association.

Dr. Russell on Work in Hand.

Pastor Russell last evening said in referring to the work in hand: "Some of the Protestant denominations are drifting rapidly into infidelity under the modern designations, higher criticism and evolution. Gradually the creeds got the Bible's place under the supposition that they agreed. Now having outgrown these creeds, in rejecting them, many are rejecting the Bible also. This is a mistake. The Bible is the most wonderful book in the world when allowed to interpret itself. It furnishes the one rallying ground for human brotherhood and Christian brotherhood. The world otherwise is falling anarchy. A lost religion will soon mean a lost hope and a lost future. It is a selfish strife for the present life only."

At this juncture Pastor Russell took up the question of "Man's fall from perfection," saying: "Let us not mourn our errors of the past unduly, but at once, now, get right with God and His book! Its presentation is logical from Genesis to Revelations. It tells of the perfection of our first parents, of the loss of their loyalty, of their fall and its penalty, death—not eternal torture."

"The Bible alone teaches that men die when they seem to die; yet it calls this a 'sleep' because there is to be an awakening and resurrection of the dead, both just and unjust."

God's Mercy Man's Hope.

"God's mercy is man's only hope," he continued, "and that mercy cannot allow sinners to live in sinful pleasure to injure themselves and others, and to mar creation; nor could it permit sinners to live in torture to blaspheme the Holy Name. But man could be redeemed by a Savior dying 'the just for the unjust' to square the demands of justice against the sin of man. God's mercy is His love. God purposed this remedy for all the race before the foundation of the world. 'In due time Christ died for the ungodly.' 'He tasted death for every man,' not eternal torture."

"The Bible alone teaches that men die when they seem to die; yet it calls this a 'sleep' because there is to be an awakening and resurrection of the dead, both just and unjust."

London Non-Stop Train.

From the Springfield Republican.

The "non-stop" train continues to exercise the mind of British engineers, and now the London county council has given permission for an actual test of the Adams Lewis system which it is proposed to introduce in the Strand. This system provides for an endless stream of small carriages, each seating from five to ten persons, and always in motion. They pass through the stations in a shallow subway at a rate of three to five miles an hour, and between stations run at about twenty-four miles an hour. These variations in speed are controlled by the motive power, which is a shaft extending throughout the route and rotating at a constant speed. The test now being made at Aldwych is partly to show that it is easy and safe to step into a vehicle moving at the pace of a slow walk. But for the interim or the nervous it is proposed to have porters with wheeled carriages that can be moved along the platform till the traveler has stepped across from the hand-driven vehicle to the train. The great advantage of the continuous stream of carriages is that the removal of the tonnage can carry a greater crowd; there are authorities who predict that all great cities will be driven to it as congestion increases.

Living to a Ripe Old Age.

From the Cincinnati Times-Star.

According to a Chicago physician, if we have any desire to live to a ripe old age we must all of us forthwith have our tonsils removed. That, in the opinion of this medical authority, is the one prerequisite to longevity. Of course, this latest scientific decision has no immediate connection with that other decision, reached some years ago, which doomed the appendix. It is evidently taken for granted that the secker after enduring health has already displayed sufficient progressiveness to have sacrificed his appendix and is now prepared to make further sacrifice in a good cause.

Old-fashioned persons, however, while admitting that the removal of the tonsils in certain cases may be highly beneficial, will not be disposed to grant that such an operation offers the only hope of living to a ripe old age. Old-fashioned persons cannot quite believe that nature, which makes so few mistakes, has erred so deplorably in the case of tonsils. Furthermore, old-fashioned persons cannot help recalling that in the days before the operation for the removal of the tonsils was at all widely practiced living to a ripe old age was not so very unusual.

ensuing year and the selection of Boston for the 1913 convention, T. Y. O'Connor of Buffalo was re-elected president. The only new officers elected were the following vice presidents: John Keon of San Francisco, W. P. Deming of Boston and James, Tiptoe of St. John, N. B.

WRECK AT MINE MOUTH.

Runaway Coal Cars Smash Into Timbers, Causing Great Damage.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 13.—By the breaking of a coupling pin in a trip of mine cars that were being hauled up an incline out of Consolidation Coal Company mine, No. 4, at Bekhart, a disastrous wreck occurred, although no person was seriously injured. The loaded cars had just reached the "knuckle," where the cable is jerked off, and the cars go forward by gravity, when the coupling pin on the first car broke. The entire trip of cars, with the exception of the first, which had passed over the "knuckle," started backward on an ever-increasing speed down the mine, and when going at a terrific clip the cars jumped the track and struck the mine timbers, tearing them down and allowing the roof of the mine, coal, slate and debris, to come down in great quantities. The cars were entirely buried under the debris, and a great hole was made in the mine roof that will take considerable time to repair. The mine officials were quickly on the scene and repairs were at once begun. The only person injured was Mr. Enock Logsdon, who was standing alongside the track when the pin broke. The rope jerked loose with such force that it pulled around and struck Mr. Logsdon a blow in the stomach, knocking him down and rendering him unconscious. He was not seriously injured.
