The Middle West is getting in line for Taft and everything looks bright for Republican success at the polls in November.

Goody, salmon! The "eastern gloom" is over for this year. —Boston Globe. You forget the cold storage. At Young's or Parker's they will serve you "Penobscot salmon" at any time.

In 1882 under a Democratic governor the town of Brooks paid a State tax of $1,034.62 and received school money to the amount of $450.61. In 1909 under a Republican Governor, Brooks paid a State tax of $864.21 and received for school money, $851.45.

May Mayor Gaynor continue a gainer is the wish of every one, and there is like unanimity in the desire that the assassin should meet with speedy and condign punishment. There should be no delay in the case of a self confessed crime and of which there were many witnesses.

Mr. E. C. Dow of this city is a temperance Democrat, is opposed to resubmission, and has announced his intention of voting for Governor Fernald, of whose administration, aside from his stand on the temperance issue, he heartily approves. We have reason to believe that there are many good Democrats who will do likewise.

The Texas Republican in their State convention, held at Dallas August 10th, unqualifiedly endorsed the administration of President Taft and nominated a full State ticket. The platform appeals especially to the "business interests." It declares against what it terms radical legislation, which has hampered the growth of the State, and bespeaks a more liberal policy towards outside capital.

The Belfast (Ireland) Harbor Board have recommended that they expend $300,000 for dredging the harbor so that it will be possible to safely launch the big White Star Line steamers Olympic and Titanic.

Belfast, Maine, is not in a condition to make such an appropriation, nor is it necessary, as this work devolves upon the general government; but it is up to Belfast, Maine, to move in the matter that an appropriation may be secured from Congress to do the dredging in this harbor so much needed. A year or two ago the Eastern Steamship Co. expended $2,100 in dredging about its wharf at this port, and now the main channel needs attention, and should have it.

Over in Lewiston candidate Plaisted in talking with a reporter said of the Democratic meetings: "It is noticeable that a great many in the audience are Republicans." Did any one ever know of a Democratic mass meeting, with or without a band, that was not largely attended by Republicans, or a Republican mass meeting that was not largely attended by Democrats? If Col. Plaisted is building his hopes of success at the polls in September on such straws as this he is dwelling in a fool's paradise. He will find that the Republicans in Kennebec county voted for him for sheriff and for mayor of Augusta consider a State election an entirely different proposition, and that the city and county will both be found in the Republican column in September.

What it means to elect Democratic county officials is illustrated by this statement of the Bangor Daily News concerning conditions in Penobscot county: "Never in either party, in any county in Maine, were there such chronic obstacles to the enforcement of the prohibitory laws in Maine as can be shown from the records of Sheriff White and County Attorney Thompson in Penobscot county." In view of this fact it is not surprising that prominent Republicans of Bangor and Penobscot county are taking a very cheerful view of the political situation. In Bangor and in the county towns a very decided change in sentiment has been observed of late, and the Republicans are all hopeful, many of them confident, of the success of their ticket this year.

The mayor has had a standing grievance against the Belfast Board of Trade because they did not select him to receive the Boston Chamber of Commerce on their visit to this city. The Belfast Board of Trade is a business men's organization and the visitors were business men, and representative citizens of both political parties were selected to welcome them. But how is it that when two leaders of the mayor's own party, one the Democratic candidate for governor, come to Belfast to hold a public meeting, previously advertised, the mayor is given no part in the program, has no place on the platform; in fact, is utterly ignored. Evidently the leaders of his own party do not regard the mayor as a representative citizen or desire his company in public.

It probably will not surprise any one to learn that Col. Plaisted has accepted the Democratic nomination for governor. Although he has been on the stump a week or two asking people to vote for him it only occurred to him last week to write and publish a letter of acceptance. It is largely a rehash of his now familiar stump speeches, but virtually admits that he cannot be elected without the aid of Republicans, and as he assumes that every Republican who goes to a Democratic meeting intends voting for him, he feels that he is as good as elected. When the votes are counted he will realize his mistake. The people of Maine want a business man, a successful business man, at the head of affairs, and not a tin soldier.

There appears to be a decided difference between talking for publication and the opinions expressed in private conversation. We see in print political predictions from people who have made statements in conversation diametrically opposite. A few days ago a Belfast man met on a train one of the Democratic triumvirate that downed Obadiah Gardner and nominated Plaisted, and in the course of conversation this Democratic boss spoke approvingly of the enlargement and improvement of the State House and expressed the opinion that our State officials were inadequately paid. Yet this man will go on the stump to declaim against what he will declare to be Republican extravagance. This fairly illustrates the hollowness and insincerity of the Democratic campaign cry. It must also be remembered that the Democrats in the last legislature voted for the appropriations they are now declaring to be extravagant, and when asked today as to whether they would cut down the appropriations for schools, for hospitals, for good roads, for the blind or the feeble minded, they make no reply. The Democratic campaign is a campaign of false pretences.

The value of the ice business in the development of New England industries is not to be measured today by the great frozen caches of the ice barons that rise along the quiet green banks of the Kennebec, nor by the ships and barges in Penobscot Bay that bear to the South a heavier load of ice than ever cumbered the winter-bound barkentines of the older school of navigation.

This paragraph from a recent editorial in the Boston Transcript relates to conditions that do not now exist and that have not existed for many years. There are no shipments of ice now from Maine to the South and they were never made in ships or barkentines. The building in Belfast of what was known as the Jacksonville fleet of three-masted schooners, of from 175 to 300 tons, was begun in the late sixties and continued in the 70's. They were centerboard craft, as there was not much water on Jacksonville bay in those days. They carried outward cargoes of ice and hay and brought back hard pine for the shipyards. After a time the West began shipping hay to Jacksonville by rail, artificial ice drove Maine ice out of the market, and the decline of the shipping industry brought this trade between Belfast and Jacksonville to an end. Some of the fleet continued in the Southern lumber trade, bringing cargoes to New York, making an occasional trip to the home port with coal.

The advent of the American ice company was the final blow to the Maine ice business. They got control of the ice houses and privileges on the Kennebec and Penobscot, and when ice makes on the Hudson they do not cut a pound in Maine, and when they do cut the shipments are mainly, if not wholly, to New York. There are only two independent ice companies in this vicinity, one at Sargentville, which ships mainly to Baltimore, and one at Rockport, which ships to the West Indies. At both these places ice is cut every season and finds a market.

Pattangal on the stump will hardly be taken seriously. His conversion to Democracy is so recent that many will recall the time when he was expounding Republican doctrine with equal fluency. He has always been more or less addicted to joking, and no doubt often laughs in his sleeve at the gullibility of some of his hearers. More than any other one man he is responsible for the killing of Gardner and the nomination of Plaisted, and which the Democracy will find a very serious joke. His campaign speciality just now is the "extravagance" issue. One specimen of his misrepresentation will suffice. The attorney general's salary, he said, is $4,000, and formerly it was $1,500. "Now we are paying more than twice as much and in addition are paying for an assistant, whose salary is $1,746." But Mr. Pattangal neglected to state that when the salary was $1,500 the attorney general also received the fees, amounting to many thousand dollars yearly, and for which no account was made or required. It was, however, generally understood to be the most profitable office in the State. The act of 1905 that raised the salary from $1,500 to $4,000 also required that all the fees of the office should be turned over to the treasurer of State, and from the State treasurer's report for 1909 it appears that the receipts of fees from the attorney general's office were $9,407.15, and that the expenses of the department, including salaries, were $8,644. That is to say, the fees not only paid all the expenses of the department but brought to the treasury a net balance of $468.15. Under the old system the attorney general would have had all the fees and his salary besides. The abol-tion of the fee system is one of the reforms accomplished by the Republican party. This is not only a fair specimen of Pattangallism, but of the misrepresentations which characterize most of the Democratic campaign utterances.

INDEPENDENT BIBLE STUDY.

It has been announced that a class for Bible study has been organized in this city, one of the many auxiliaries of the International Bible Students' association, which has been holding an annual convention in the auditorium at Celeron on Chautauque Lake. It is said to have been the largest gathering of the kind ever held in Northern New York, with a daily attendance averaging from four to six thousand, with ten thousand on Sunday. Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle is the President of the International Bible Students' Association, and is also President of the People's Pulpit Association of New York, President of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society and editor of The Watch Tower. The Jamestown Journal of August 6th publishes a long interview with Pastor Russell in which he discusses several topics of timely interest in connection with the work. He recently returned from Europe where he conducted an extensive work, and is planning to make another visit to London at an early day. He said: "Classes of Bible students are springing up all over Great Britain outside of all denominational lines. Christians are reaching a better understanding of the Word of God, and finding it, to their great joy."

The Prescott Family Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Prescott family was held at the home of Edmund Prescott in South Liberty, August 13th. Some, after enquiring the way several times, found that all roads led to the beautiful hillside home of Bro. Prescott. The day was spent in renewing cousinship and telling how they got there. We found one brother stranded half way up the last hill with both tugs broken and each wheel of the wagon wanted to prevent its backward movement. While repairs were in progress our brother was heard to say: "I wouldn't live here if they would give me all I could see." After one of the best of dinners had been served the boys stumped us old fellows to play ball. The challenge was accepted and after playing five innings the score was 7 to 7. At this point all were called to order and prayer was offered by Rev. E. A. Dinslow. Officers were then elected as follows: Geo. W. Prescott, President; F. F. Phillips, Vice President; O. W. Ripley, Secretary; E. A. Dinslow, Treasurer. Following the election were remarks by Uncle George's picture on them were given out, which pleased all. It was voted to hold the next reunion with Rev. E. A. Dinslow in South Montville, after which all thanked our good Brother and Sister Prescott for their kindness to us for the day.—Secretary.

MORRILL. Several Belfast people participated in the lawn party and concert given Tuesday evening, August 9th, at the Mears homestead for the benefit of the Social Aid of the church. Among them were Miss Marian Heald and Miss Frances Jones, who sang a duet, and in the orchestra, which played several selections, were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jones and Roy Copeland, formerly of Belfast. The grounds of the Mears place are large and studded with beautiful old trees and among them hung lanterns and flags, giving a very pretty effect. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served and home-made candy sold. There was a large attendance, including several from Belfast.

Years of Suffering

Catarrah and Blood Disease - Doctors Failed to Cure. Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrah and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrah." Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

The News of Brooks.

Mr. James Wilkins is still very sick at the home of Charles E. Bowen. Alexander Stevens and wife have moved into the Will Emmons' house. Miss Clara York of the York Hotel has returned from a short vacation. Ira W. Bowden has been helping William Gould during the haying season. Miss Lula Stiles of Portland is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Stiles. Our highways have been badly washed by the heavy rains and are in terrible condition. Elmer Thompson and a friend are here from Lowell, Mass., to visit his father Geo. A. Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huxford from Boston have been visiting the family of his cousin, T. I. Huxford. Mrs. Hattie Rowe has gone to Monroe to make her home for a time at least with the Gilmore family. E. A. Carpenter and wife have returned from a trip to New York as the guests of the Coe-Mortimer Co.

Charles Marden and wife of Belfast visited their nephew, L. A. Bacheider, at the Sprout Hill farm last Monday.

Mrs. Chas. S. Hobbs with her children is spending a month at Temple Heights at the cottage of Nina Hobbs.

Mrs. Mabel Mathews and two children from West Somerville, Mass., have been visiting the family of Elmer G. Roberts.

The mother of Will Swift of this town died here last week after an illness of some months from cancer of the stomach.

Having is but barely finished here, but a largely increased crop over that of the last two years has been harvested.

Bernard Staples who graduated from Shaw's Business College last spring is still holding down his job at Northeast Harbor.

The Brooks correspondent of The Journal has been out in the country on a vacation which accounts for the paucity of the Brooks news.

Elmer G. Roberts, manager for the Hood Creameries in Maine, has obtained an automobile which he finds very convenient in his business.

Miss Avis Woods, who is a teacher in the Massachusetts schools, is visiting her parents and other friends of whom she has many in this vicinity.

Mrs. E. D. Bessey and sons, Charles D. and John M., from Zanesville, Ohio, are visiting Grandpa Dow and it goes without saying that he is delighted.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jewell of South Dakota came to Brooks to see Mrs. Jewell's sister, Mary McTaggart, and got there a few hours before she died.

Charles Knox and family have returned from Boston, where he had employment the past year, and will spend a time on their farm, the Leonard Rowe homestead.

Mrs. Charles Brackett and daughter Gale are spending the summer with friends in Brooks. They intend to pass the winter in Boston, where Mr. Brackett is engaged in business.

Miss Lila Estes of Auburn is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Estes. She finished a course in a business college and accepted a position that has held good for a year.

Robert, son of Mark S. Stiles, who finished at Colby last spring, will enter the U. of M. this fall. Robert is well bred, has good ability, and ought to make somebody when he gets well trained.

Chas. F. Files, our genial station agent, has given up his job and gone away, much to the regret of our people, for both he and his family were thought very much of here and we regret to have them leave us.

The body of Miss Emma Ellis, for some years a resident of this town, was recently brought here for burial from Massachusetts, where she had two brothers. She lived here for some years with the family of Isaac Leathers.

Mrs. Vesta Davis Higgins, who for some years has been away with her husband, who is an officer in the army, arrived in town last week and was heartily greeted by her friends here. Her various Notes of Travel have been perused with pleasure by The Journal readers.

Mrs. Denico, who recently died at her home in Benton, was known in Brooks as Miss Abbie Rich. She was the daughter of the late Ansel Rich of this town and her girlhood was passed here. The entire family were regular attendants at the Congregational church and had many friends here. Mrs. Charles L. Austin was a cousin and heir to some of her property.

Rev. David Brackett has been sick and confined to the house for over four weeks, a very uncommon thing for him. His friends in the charges where he has been preaching, in East Dixmont, Jackson and North Monroe, last week sent him a postal shower of nearly 100 cards containing written messages of sympathy and friendship, which in his weakness and illness cheered him very much and which he very highly appreciated. There were also letters and some money sandwiched in which afforded material comfort to him and for which he is deeply grateful. We all regret the illness of Brother Brackett very much, for he has long been one of our most useful, and highly honored citizens.

At 4 p. m. July 3, 1910, passed from single blessedness to a honeymoon thrice renewed our highly respected friend and honored citizen Leander Staples, whose fascinating qualities with the opposite sex are a matter not only of tradition but of record. When he happens to be unmarried there is always a female waiting and ready for the position of companion and comforter for him. The refined and accomplished lady from Portland failed last season to make connection, without doubt for the reason that the gallant Leander remembered the acquaintance of his earlier years in the, to him, more fascinating lady from Rockland. And so it has come to pass that there is again a Mrs. Leander Staples. They are cozily settled in a home just big enough for two and they have our best wishes for their comfort and happiness. The bride was formerly Mrs. Lydia Titus of Rockland.

The launch Koi Bilo, 2nd, was in Sun-set harbor Monday with Andrew Little, his sisters, Lucetia and Natalie, and the Misses Mabel and Mildred Thompson, to call on their uncle, Ed Colby. The launch came from Massachusetts and is going as far as Eastport.—Deer Isle Messenger.

Mrs. Sara Morison of Belfast, was the guest at luncheon Tuesday of Miss Lillian Fellows. Mrs. Morison was a classmate at Wellesley of Miss Dunn of Buffalo, N. Y., who is Miss Fellows' guest.—Bangor Commercial.

WEDDING BELLS.

COOMBS-GREENLAW. The wedding of Mr. Herman Haines Coombs of Caribou and Miss Eva B. Greenlaw took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Greenlaw, Northport Avenue, Tuesday, August 16th, at 2 p. m. Rev. Eugene S. Philbrook of Sanford, former pastor of the Belfast Baptist church, officiated, using the single ring service. The families of the contracting parties and a few friends were present. The home was profusely decorated; the hall with golden glow, and the parlor with sweet peas, the color scheme being pink and white. The bridal party stood beneath a floral arch extending from the two double windows. Large jardeners and vases of the same flowers were placed about the room. In the dining room sweet peas and asters were used with excellent effect. The bride was becomingly gowned in light blue crepe-de-chene over light blue taffeta and carried bride roses. Miss Carrie M. Greenlaw, her sister, was maid of honor, wearing light blue silk and carrying white pinks. Misses Marian Perry, Grace Littlefield and Edythe Atkins were bridesmaids. Miss Perry wore white crepe-de-chene, Miss Atkins white silk and Miss Littlefield pink silk muslin. They carried white pinks. Maurice E. Lord of Waterville was best man. Miss Isabel Ginn played Lohengrin's wedding march. Miss Julia Littlefield was usher and Miss Maude B. Steward had charge of the presents. A wedding lunch followed the ceremony. Mr. L. S. Shiro catered and members of the Sewing Club, Misses Bertha and Mattie Wiley, Anne M. Kittredge, Lu Thompson and Rubie Goodell assisted in serving. The popularity of the young couple was attested by the number of presents received, and which included cut glass, sterling, linen, bric-a-brac, etc. The guests from out-of-town included Dr. M. V. B. Metcalf of Rockville, Conn., Mrs. Lorenzo and Miss Lida Greenlaw of Rockport, Mrs. Maude Sherman of Dark Harbor, Mrs. Georgia Pendleton and Mrs. Mildred Pendleton of Islesboro, and Mrs. Ella Coombs of Caribou. The bride had for several years conducted a millinery business on Main street and the groom is a member of the Sherwood Co. of Caribou. Both bride and groom have been connected with the Belfast Baptist church and its young people's societies, and have a host of friends who wish them prosperity and happiness. They left on the afternoon boat for a week's visit in Pulpit Harbor and will spend a few days in Belfast on their way to Caribou, where they will make their home.

DEMONS-STROUT. The marriage of Miss Mildred A., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Strout, and Mr. Percy Demons of Machias, took place at the home of the bride's parents on Congress street, August 10th, at 7.30 p. m. Rev. William Vaughan, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, East Belfast, officiating. Only the family of the bride were present. The parlor where the ceremony took place was decorated in golden glow and golden rod, with an abundance of ferns. The bride was gowned in white and carried white pinks. The bride couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Strout, the former the bride's brother. A wedding lunch followed the ceremony, and was served in the dining room, which was decorated with cut-flowers, ferns and palms. The bride and groom are popular young people and a large circle of friends wish them a prosperous and happy wedded life. They have for some time been employed in the grocery store of Charles F. Swift, the bride as bookkeeper. For the present they will make their home with the bride's parents.

ROCHE-ROWE. Arthur S. Roche, a New York magazine writer, son of James Jeffrey Roche, and Miss Ethel K. Rowell, who for 15 years has lived with Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Grindle of 169 West 12th street, New York, as their daughter, left the Grindle summer home in Castine by automobile on Friday afternoon and were married in Bucksport two hours later by Rev. E. J. Klock. Then they continued on to Bangor, registering at the Penobscot Exchange and leaving Saturday noon for Boston. Mr. Roche and Miss Rowell were to have been married in the fall, but upon being left alone Friday afternoon it occurred to them to hasten matters a little. On Saturday morning they called the Grindle residence by telephone and were duly forgiven.

BELL-McDONOUGH. The wedding of Miss Nora Agnes McDonough of Wintport and George Bell of Boston, Mass., formerly of Bangor, took place Thursday afternoon, August 11th, in Wintport, Rev. M. F. O'Connor of St. Gabriel's Catholic church officiating. Miss Louise McDonough, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and John J. Bell of Boston, groomsmen. The bride was gowned in a dark blue travelling suit and wore a picture hat, while the bridesmaid wore Alice blue over Persian silk and also wore a picture hat. After the ceremony, a reception, very enjoyable in nature, took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Walter McDonough. The house was prettily decorated with sweet peas and evergreen. The groom is employed by the American Telephone Company of Boston. Both he and his bride, a charming young woman, are the recipients of countless good wishes. Many handsome presents testified to the esteem in which they are held. After short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Bell will reside in West Somerville, Mass. Among the out of town people present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John J. Bell of West Everett, Mass., Miss Frances Hanscom of Boston and Miss Sarah Buzzell of Bangor.
