ferred by train to Rouen, imprisoned there in cells, the floors of which were covered with filth and the walls with obscene drawings. They were there six hours before being able to buy a piece of stale bread and a piece of cheese. Rummel's fellow prisoner was an Apache who confided to him that he had just stabbed a woman. Rummel had at every stage of his experience explained who he was and demanded that the authorities should inquire at the American embassy in Paris. Luckily he had been able to send a telegram to the consul general in Paris before being interned. He and his wife were released therefore after forty-eight hours' detention altogether, upon representations of the American consul in Rouen.

Mr. Rummel's father and grandfather were British. His mother was the daughter of S. F. B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph. Rummel happened to have been born in Berlin during a period when his father was there on business. He was registered as British-born at the British consulate. His parents went to America when he was 3 years old. After the death of his father his mother resumed American citizenship. Young Rummel was entirely devoted to his mother's nationality and did so. The circumstance that he was born in Berlin appears to have drawn upon him the suspicion that he was German.

The American embassy has gone fully into the matter and has made representations to the foreign office upon the indignities Mr. and Mrs. Rummel have suffered since the war began in honor and other charitable work in France, particularly in organizing funds for musicians.

London, Nov. 8.—The heartlessness of the red tape system is shown in the letter written by a mother to the director of the London papers, who, instead of the trenches, received the following typed notice from the military censor: "Envelope is obsolete, and its use is forbidden."

Lately it was decided that the green envelopes served out to the soldiers in France should not be used, possibly because they had fallen into the hands of spies. But the act of the censor fell hard on the mother, who writes: "My son was sent out to France in the first week of February, and had no leave. He came out of hospital on Oct. 7, where he had been a month of spies. But the act of the censor was forwarded, each one coming back to us, and was sent straight up to the front line again."

"We have heard nothing about him since Oct. 11, so our anxiety can be understood. A comrade writes to tell us he was missing and that the sergeant was writing details. Our indignation may be imagined when we received, not news of our dear lad, but the heartless slip of paper already described. He was lance-corporal, and the best of sons."

London, Nov. 8.—Women are to take the place of clerks in the post office by the government who will be released for active service. Preference will be given to the wives and sisters of the recruits in filling the vacancies. There are over 300,000 government clerks employed in England and Wales alone who are in military age, but part of them are physically unfit for the army and others have a specialized knowledge of their work that makes them invaluable in their departments.

The women clerks, after a short training course, will receive the wages of the men whose places they take. Classes for training in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping and clerical methods have already been formed in London, Manchester and other cities.

Wounded soldiers and sailors discharged as unfit for further services are also preparing themselves for work as government clerks in large numbers.

Lausanne, Switzerland, Nov. 6.—Women passengers are always more closely examined than men at the Swiss-Austrian frontier, writes a correspondent of the Austrian side to The Gazette de Lausanne. One woman was lately caught who had notes written on her back with indelible ink. Another had her arm in a sling, and when the bandage and plaster were removed despite her tears and supplications, documents full of military information were brought to light. Her arm was entirely sound.

Petrograd, Nov. 7.—The effect of the war on the common soldiers and their families in the villages has been studied and reported to the Imperial Geographic society by I. L. Ulyanoff, on the basis of letters that have passed through his hands. Mr. Ulyanoff examined fourteen letters written about the same time from the Dvinsk front and an equal number of letters written from a village in the northern province of Perm. Of course there was no selection. Without exception all the village letter-writers declared that war had to be fought to a victorious conclusion, no matter what the cost to the country or to themselves.

The soldiers writing from the front, some on the eve of battle, expressed unflinching confidence in the final outcome, whether they should live to see it or not. But what was more striking was that practically all the soldier letter-writers had obviously undergone, in their lonely watches or in their quiet trench conversations, moral experiences that Mr. Ulyanoff characterized as conversions. They expressed the intention, if spared, to live according to the dictates of their consciences. Some spoke of vows by themselves and by companions not to fall in future into the errors of their past, to be sober and industrious, gentle and kind.

Associated Press Letters From the War Zone

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)

Paris, Nov. 6.—Difficulties for Americans traveling on the continent are increasing. Walter Morse Rummel, the American composer and pianist who has been living for many years in Paris, and his wife, formerly Therese Chaigneau, a French pianist, were arrested at Dieppe recently, suspected of being spies. They were returning home from London where professional engagements called them. They had submitted their papers to the French consulate general in London and had received a safe-conduct to Paris. They had an American passport and a personal letter from Mr. Thackara, the consul general. They were searched after their arrest at Dieppe. Although nothing suspicious was found, they were detained in a hotel overnight. The next morning Rummel was taken by gendarmes through the streets, followed by children calling out that he was a German. Both he and his wife were locked up in prison until the next morning. Rummel's cell companions were two persons accused of theft. Mr. and Mrs. Rummel were transferred by train to Rouen, imprisoned there in cells, the floors of which were covered with filth and the walls with obscene drawings. They were there six hours before being able to buy a piece of stale bread and a piece of cheese. Rummel's fellow prisoner was an Apache who confided to him that he had just stabbed a woman. JEHOVAH PROVES HIS CONSECRATED PEOPLE

The Test Is One of Heart Loyalty, Not of Absolute Perfection.

Consecration and Spirit-Begetting First, Then the Proving—One Thing to Promise, Another to Fulfill—God's Plan Marvellously Beautiful When Understood—Faith In God Essential. Bible Teaching Reasonable.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 23.—We report a discourse delivered here today by Pastor Russell from the text, "The Lord your God proreth you, whether ye love the Lord your God with all your heart and soul."—Deut. 10:13.

While his text was addressed to Natural Israel, yet it applies to Spiritual Israel also, the speaker said. All of God's people are tested. The Lord is proving their devotion. Those who have consecrated themselves to give up their lives to do God's will, and who have been accepted through our great Redeemer's imputed righteousness, have been received into God's family and have become New Creatures in Christ, joint-heirs with Him to glory, honor and immortality—the Divine nature. But first they must be proved, must demonstrate that they mean all that they say. Consecration is more easily said than fulfilled.

Having surrendered themselves to God, this class receive an enlightenment. (Hebrews 10:32.) This illumination comes through the Holy Spirit and the Word of God. It enables its possessors to have an insight into God's character and Plan and to appreciate their consecration vows and the glorious things in reservation for His faithful children. (1 Corinthians 2:9; Ephesians 3:14-19.) While this work is going on, there is also a disciplinary training.

A Foretaste of Coming Glory.
Daily this class receive added blessings. God has indeed entered into a covenant with them. They agreed to surrender themselves—their wills, their preferences in every matter, in thought, word and action. On this same condition Jesus was accepted and became the Head of the Church. In return the Father gave them the Holy Spirit, the first-fruits of their inheritance, the earnest of coming glory. (Romans 8:23; Ephesians 1:13, 14.) In future ages of glory He will continue to show the Church the glorious riches of His love.—Ephesians 2:7.

Our Heavenly Father has exceeding great blessings in store for His beloved children when their loyalty has been demonstrated. All things permitted to come to this class are for their good, for their preparation for the Kingdom, that they may be to the glory of God when exalted with Jesus to the highest plane of existence.

This is the glorious outlook before this class. If any fail, the responsibility is upon himself. There is no other way to get into the Kingdom except as individuals, personally related to the Lord Jesus Christ. It is for each one to make his calling and election sure. But God is not trying their imperfect flesh. In the Bible He tells us that all mankind are imperfect, fallen. He is proving their spirit, their will. While they have not a perfect body, as Jesus had, nevertheless they can have His spirit, disposition, will. They can will for truth, righteousness, faithfulness to their covenant with God. They must come as nearly to the line as possible. God looks to see to what extent they crucify the desires of the flesh.

Worthiness of the Bride of Christ.
God's Plan is so beautiful, so reasonable, that we could not ask Him to change even one feature. If He sees that His children mean all that they said in consecration, the blood of Jesus Christ will cover all their defects; and they will be acceptable to God and counted worthy of the reward. Whoever would be approved of God must possess character. Not one will reach the Kingdom without it. Whatever one has to do with developing the necessary character will be counted real worth in God's sight; and Jesus' righteousness will make up the rest.

It is not keeping a Sabbath nor wearing clothes of a certain style that proves character such as God requires. He is looking for faith. (Hebrews 11:6.) While He has a glorious arrangement in the incoming Age for those who cannot exercise faith now, He is not calling that class during this Age. But faith is not credulity. God expects us to have faith in Him and His Word; and He says, "Come, let us reason together." There is no credit in believing what one cannot understand. We are to believe God's Word, not man's creeds.

Another thing required of this class is loyalty. They must stand for all that God stands for, and oppose all that He opposes. God opposes everything dishonorable, false and evil. There are but two sides. We cannot serve God and mammon—Truth and error. There is great danger of being deceived. Thousands of people stand today where they should not stand—and would not, were their eyes not blinded. (2 Corinthians 4:4.) God proves His people, whether or not they love Him with all the heart. To do so is the highest attainment of a Christian.
