DRAWING BIG AUDIENCES

Frostburg Opera House Packed to Its Capacity Each Night During the Showing of the Beautiful and Interesting Bible Pictures.

Interest Increases Each Week in the World-Renowned Production of the International Bible Students' Association.

Concerning the splendid free entertainment being given the first three nights of each week in the Frostburg Opera House, by the International Bible Students' Association, we take pleasure in making the following notations, and trust that all who can will avail themselves during the next two weeks of what is probably the only opportunity that will ever be given to see these world-renowned pictures in Frostburg.

The story of creation so graphically depicted in the photo-play is instructive educational, and scientific, and drawn as accurately as possible from the Bible story. The first week's exhibit was a series of stereoscopic slides gradually changing from one to the other. There appeared first the earth, apparently no more than a dot among the great stars in the blue sky. The second slide showed the earth in the process cooling, and then were shown in sequence, the seven creative "days" or periods.

It is said the Drama in its entirety represents the study and work of three years. The moving pictures, which are the main feature of the performance, and tell the most impressive and inspiring stories of both the Old and New Testaments, were actually taken in Palestine, the Holy Land, with the exception of those which tell of the story of Exodus, were taken in Egypt.

The wonderfully beautiful scenes which tell the story of the last agonizing hour of prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane were photographed by moving picture experts in the very spot where Jesus is believed to have knelt in prayer before Judas Iscariot betrayed him to the Romans with a kiss. The expense to which the association was put in order to secure these pictures cannot be estimated, but it was enormous.

The story of man's creation in his Maker's image, of his disobedience, of the result of the fall from Divine favor, of the downward tendency of sin, is brought out by easy stages in stereoscopic views up to the time of the deluge. In delineating the philosophy of the deluge, the Bible account is strictly followed.

Next follows the story in pictures of the confusion of tongues, the Divine adoption of Abraham and his posterity down to the tenth plague of the Egyptians, and the final demand of Moses and Aaron that Pharaoh release the Children of Israel from bondage. The story of the tenth plague, or the slaying of the first-born, is graphically told in the pictures.

The second great division of the film story has to do with the wanderings of Israelites in the wilderness and the illustration of the explanation of their affairs during the reigns of Kings Saul, David and Solomon.

The atmosphere of reverence, of awe, of wonderful peace and good will among men, seems to be transferred from the picture screen to the vast audience as it sits breathlessly and watches the Star of the East rise before the shepherds, watching over their sleeping flocks. The heavenly choir of angels appears, and the shepherds fall upon their knees and give thanks. Then they arise and follow the star to the manger, where the Christ-child sleeps. The three wise men are seen traversing the desert on their camels. To them the great moving star appears, and they follow it, as do the shepherds.

But more awe-inspiring than all this, is the film which shows the appearance of Jesus as an infant to Joseph and Mary.

The fourth or final section of the films begins with the events that led up to the crucifixion. The Last Supper is shown in contrast with the typical Jewish feast of the Passover. The triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem is illustrated in detail. Following the Last Supper, Christ's agonizing prayer in Gethsemane and the arrival above him of the comforting angel is shown. Then follows the scene of his betrayal by a disciple's kiss, his trial before Pilate, and the crucifixion.

From His crucifixion, which is also clearly demonstrated, the story leads into the narrative of early Christianity. There is shown the Pentecostal blessing, and the preaching by the apostles, the martyrdom of St. Stephen, who was stoned to death, and there are also representations of the early church and its methods, drawing on history till the time of the Crusades, and later the great cathedrals.

The moving picture following this brings out a feature of human interest in the history of Marcellus and the lion. Church history down to the present time is then traced. Luther and the struggle against Catholicism, the history of Cramer, Lattimer, Ridley, John Calvin and Servetus is shown in the pictures. There is also shown the rise of Methodism and other protestant creeds, with the attendant persecutions. Then follow pictures showing the Scriptural prophecies down a thousand years into the future, revealing the blessings of the Millennium. The exhibition closes with pictures showing the peoples, customs and mode of living in India, China and Japan, in contrast with the people of the United States.

A UNIQUE HOG FENCE.

Fred Durr and Mr. Pinkwhiskers are the Patentees and Manufacturers.

Chas. L. Bolden, one of The Spirit's many good friends residing in the vicinity of Finzel, was a caller at The Spirit office last Saturday. He came in to renew his subscription, not only to The Spirit, but also to the Meyersdale Republican, for subscriptions are received by the Livengood brothers for either or both of the papers named, at the office of either.

Mr. Bolden said he would hate to do without either of the papers named, but added that so far he had not noticed anything in either of them in regard to a flourishing new industry over at Pocahontas. "What industry is that?" queried the editor. "Why," said Mr. Bolden, "Fred Durr and Mr. Pinkwhiskers have a large factory in operation at Pocahontas that is kept busy, night and day, turning out sections of a patent hog fence of which they are the inventors and patentees."

When asked to describe the fence, Mr. Bolden said it was hard to describe, but the design was conceived by Mr. Pinkwhiskers, some time ago, while wrestling with a severe attack of delirium tremens. While the tremens had him, "Pink" saw a large serpent throw its spine into a large number of very peculiar kinks, and this made such an impression on his mind that he conceived the idea of constructing a hog fence on the same plan.

He then disclosed the design to Mayor Fred Durr, who promptly suggested some slight changes in the reverse curves, and the two then constructed a model fence around an old sandy sow and seven pigs in Mayor Durr's hog lot. The fence completed, several pairs of battermilk slop, some corn and several other varieties of hog food were placed on the outside of the fence to tempt the swine to get at it.

There was a great scramble for the food, but try as they would to get through the fence, which has large openings in it, the swine had to give up the undertaking.

The fence is so full of unique crooks, that no matter where a hog tries to get through, it always meets itself coming back, and on the same side of the fence it started from.

After a public demonstration was given, Mayor Durr called a special session of the Pocahontas City Council, and it was then and there decided to bond the town, build a fence factory and operate it as a municipal plant, the municipality, Durr and Pinkwhiskers sharing equally in the profits.

The plant is already completed and running day and night, and Mayor Durr has instructed "Felly" Sass, the Pocahontas envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Germany, to instruct the Kaiser to abandon his intended visit to America to become a guest of Mayor Durr during the Dog Day season of the present year, owing to pressing business engagements of the Mayor, who will have no time to break pretzels and quaff schooners of lager with European parasites and microbes, no matter what titles they carry.

DELIGHTFUL OUTING.

Generous-Hearted Bachelor Treats Friends to an Automobile Trip.

On Tuesday morning a party from Salisbury and vicinity passed through Frostburg in two automobiles, the cars being run by Albert Reitz, cashier of the First National Bank of Salisbury, and Harry Knecht, of Knecht's Foundry & Machine Works, of West Salisbury.

The other members of the party were Millard Lowry, "Squire" and Mrs. A. B. Lowry, Mrs. A. L. Lowry, Mrs. Annie Kretchman, Mrs. Wm. Lowry and Mrs. Elijah Newman.

The trip was arranged and paid for by Millard Lowry, a generous-hearted bachelor and retired farmer residing with his brother William, one mile east of Salisbury. Mr. Lowry, for the past few years has been treating some of his friends and kinsfolk to outings of this kind, much to their delight and appreciation, several times a year.

The outing arranged for by the jovial and generous bachelor, Tuesday, took in the following route: Salisbury to Frostburg, thence via Lonaconing to Piedmont, thence to Keyser, W. Va., thence to Cumberland, thence to Salisbury via Frostburg.

On the return trip the party stopped an hour in Frostburg to exchange greetings with friends and do a little shopping. They left Salisbury at 7 o'clock a. m., and about four hours later landed in Keyser. On the return trip they pulled out of Frostburg in plenty of time to be at home for supper.

Distinguished Visitor.

The editor was truly delighted yesterday when his office latchstring was pulled by Hon. J. A. Berkeley, of Somerset, Pa., who came to this city on legal business, and, of course, would never think of coming to this town without visiting his old friend, "Pete" Livengood.

Mr. Berkeley is one of the leading lawyers of Western Pennsylvania, a man of rare business qualifications, an excellent politician, and above all, one of the squarest and best all-around men The Spirit knows of.

He and the editor have been friends of the staunchest type ever since 1892, when they first learned to know each other, and The Spirit can truly say that its editor has never had a truer nor a more steadfast friend than Mr. Berkeley, and the town of Somerset has never had any other citizen within its borders so public-spirited, nor one who has done any way near as much for the advancement of that exceptionally beautiful county-seat town.

More power to Berkeley, for he is one of the greatest bundles of energy we know of, true and loyal to his friends, patriotic, public-spirited, generous hearted, and in every sense an honorable, manly man.

MORE POOR MAN'S WEALTH

Son No. 6, Child No. 10, Arrives at Editor's Home.

Joseph Frederick Livengood, sixth son and tenth child of Editor and Mrs. P. L. Livengood, was born last Friday morning, the 12th inst. He is a fine boy, and seems to be pleased that he first saw the light in his dad's native state. The boy is more welcome than a gardenful of June roses, and the parents and the whole family are much pleased over his safe arrival.

A HORSE ON RODEHEAVER.

From The Meyersdale Republican.

A Chicago jury rendered a verdict for $20,000 damages in favor of Miss Georgia Jay in her breach of promise suit against Homer Rodeheaver, the erstwhile choir master of the Billy Sunday revival meetings. Rodeheaver's famous song, "The Brewer's Big Horses," never failed to make a hit, but now the brewers seem to have the horse on Rodeheaver as the $20,000 heart balm which he is called upon to pay fills them with glee and gives them the opportunity to give the noted singer the horse laugh-the big horse laugh, as it were.

Miss Jay alleged that she met Rodeheaver in Iowa, that they became friends and that he proposed marriage to her and was accepted. Later, she declared, he refused to marry her "because marriage would interfere with his career."

Taxicab rides, long strolls and discussion of future plans figured largely in the testimony of Miss Jay. Evidence was presented showing that Rodeheaver was paid $1000 a week and traveling expenses.

It is a question now whether Rodeheaver's career has not suffered more through the notoriety gained by being sued for breach of promise than it possibly could have been hampered by marrying a nice girl. The man who will let his "career" stand between him and matrimony must hold the God-ordained institution of marriage in very light regard. A good wife will give a man more joy than any career he can possibly have, and if he has a good wife to take care of him, his career will take care of itself.

Whether Miss Jay would have made a good wife for a great choir master or not, nobody knows, but at all events it appears that Mr. Rodeheaver made a bad mess of it when he trifled with her affections.

State Road Contracts Awarded.

At a meeting of the State Roads Commission held on May 29th, the following contracts were awarded: Vang Construction Company, Cumberland, Md., for the improvement of a section of State road in Allegany county, from McKenzie's Store to the Cumberland and Westernport Electric Railway Company's crossing, a distance of 3.56 miles, construction to be a 14-foot concrete road, with a ½" bituminous top.

Burgess Brothers & Burgess, Scottsville, Va., for the improvement of a section of State road in Allegany county, from Green Ridge to the Washington county line, a distance of 7.84 miles, construction to be of macadam.

Work on these contracts will be started as soon as conditions permit.

More School Rooms Wanted.

The Principal and assistant teachers of the Hill Street public school have circulated a petition for two additional school rooms, and the authorities should grant the request. Frostburg is in need of more school rooms and fewer saloons.

BE A BOOSTER, not a knocker.

Hard Frost at Grantsville.

Emanuel Hershberger, a farmer residing near Grantsville, was doing some marketing in this city yesterday. While in town he called at The Spirit office to transact some business, and reported a heavy frost at Grantsville and vicinity, yesterday morning, with the mercury only two degrees above freezing. He did not think, however, that much damage was done to growing crops, except to the extremely tender varieties of vegetation.

Big Junior Order Event.

The 14th annual reunion of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of Allegany County, will be held here on Saturday, July 18th. A committeeman from each council of the county, is preparing for the largest gathering of "Juniors" ever held here.

Besides the county councils, other councils will be invited, and a special effort will be made to have members of the fraternity here from Oakland, Md.; Bedford, Meyersdale, and Salisbury, Pa.; Kesey, Blaine, Peidmont, Gorman, Thomas, Davis and Elkins, W. Va. There are 13 councils of the order in Allegany county, and some of them very strong ones. The order is one of the most energetic and wide-awake to be found anywhere, and is especially strong in Frostburg, where the membership comprises many of the town's foremost citizens.

Charles Wright Dead.

Charles Wright, once a resident on the Walnut Level Farm, died about 12 o'clock Sunday night, 14th inst., at his home in Greenville township, Pa., after a long illness; aged 67 years.

Deceased was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Wright, Sr., who resided many years in Salisbury, Pa., where they died within the last ten or fifteen years. He is survived by his wife, one daughter (Mrs. Norman Wilhelm) and three sons; also by brothers and sisters, as follows: Germanis, Greenville township, Pa.; John, of Elk Lick, Pa.; Mrs. Alex. Reckner, formerly of this city; Mrs. Silas A. Wagner and Mrs. R. A. Winter, of Elk Lick, Pa., and Mrs. John Kountz and Mrs. Ruhanna Hooe, of California.

Charles Wright was a man of generous impulses and had a large circle of friends in Frostburg, as well as throughout Somerset county, Pa., and Garrett county, Md. His remains were interred in Allegany Cemetery, this place, Wednesday, the 17th inst., and a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives attended the obsequies.

Wanted—Twenty Girls.

The committee in charge of arrangements for "Pennant Raising Day" at the Frostburg baseball park next Wednesday afternoon, is anxious to secure twenty girls between the age of 13 and 15 years to take part in the street parade and to raise the pennant at the park.

The members of the committee are: Oliver B. Wittig, James Kenney, Rudolph Nickel, George G. Jeffries and Walter Jeffries. All girls willing to volunteer their services to help the Frostburg ball club are requested to give their names to any member of this committee before Saturday.

The Tax Appeal Sessions.

The sessions so far held in the City Council Chamber by the Mayor and Council, to hear appeals from the recent tax assessments, have been largely attended, but few reductions have so far been allowed. On Friday, the 19th inst., another all-day session will be held, when the board will present its answer on the Gunter, Shea, Dillon and Frostburg Furniture Company appeals.
