Interesting Book By Pensacola Writer.

A new book, "Social Wrongs and a Practical Remedy: a Public Property Reserve," by Carl E. Swansson, has come to The Journal's review table. Money Supreme In War.

The dispatches say that the conclusion of the Balkan war is now a matter of only a few days. The reason given for this positive assurance is that Turkey is at the end of her financial tether. Now that the Ottoman empire can no longer raise a dollar the end of the war is inevitable. It is true that Turkey has all the soldiers she needs and can today muster in the field more men than all the Balkan nations, but an empty war chest is not in keeping with modern warfara.

It is also a fact that it would be sum of money, but with victory on their side it is not improbable they Simply Remarkablecould continue the war many months

Perhaps it is better that these things are true as they tend to keep the peace But it is rather humiliating that ever the greatest nations do not dare to go to war without consulting the houses of Rothschild and Morgan.

But Stop at the Branch-Spring has come and with it is the "Rube"-Journal baseball game controance of many years of happiness and SENATOR STOKES PROPOSES GOOD MEASURE FOR TELEGRAPH SERVICE LIABILITY.

Hon. Jno. P. Stokes, state senator from Escambia county, announces that he will introduce the following bill to fix the liability of persons engaged in the telegraph business in Florida:

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED An Act to fix the liability of persons, firms and corporations engaged in the telegraph business in certain cases, providing for assessing the damages and the granting of new trials in such cases, and to declare illegal and void certain stipulations and provisions in contracts exempting such persons, firms and corporations from liability in certain

Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Florida: Section 1. That persons, firms and corporations engaged in the business of transmitting telegrams into or out of this state, or from one point to another point within this state, shall be liable in damages to the sender and addressee, jointly or severally, of any telegram received for transmission and delivery, whether said telegram is received for transmission into or out of this state, or from one point to another point within this state, for mental anguish, suffering and distress of feelings resulting from the negligent failure to promptly transmit or to promptly deliver such telegram, or because of the negligent failure to correctly transmit and deliver such telegram.

Section 2. That the jury, or the judge, where there is no jury, trying any case arising under this act, shall assess the damages to be awarded the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such suit; provided, that in no case arising under this act shall a judge or jury assessesing the damages award more than five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars; and whenever it shall clearly appear to the judge presiding at the trial of any such case that the jury which found the verdict in such case was manifestly actuated by improper motives in arriving at such verdict, he may set aside such verdict and grant a new Section 3. That all provisions and stipulations contained in any contract relieving or exempting, or having the effect to relieve or exempt any person, firm or corporation engaged in the telegaph business from the liability imposed by law, or purporting to limit the time in which suits may be brought against such person, firm or corporation, for negligent failure to perform any duty imposed or assumed by any such person, firm or corporation to a period of time shorter than the time povided by the statute of limitations of this state, are hereby declared to be against the public policy of this state and to be illega! and vold, and no court in this state shall give effect to any such provision or stipulation contained in any contract what-

Section 4. This act shall take effect upon becoming a law. Concerning the merits of this bill, Senator Stokes writes to the newspapers of Florida and to the members of the legislature as follows:

There is a grave injustice in our law. Will you help remedy it? Please write me fully what you think of it, and kindly make such suggestions as you care to make. If a telegram advising you of the serious illness of your mother, wife or child, and summoning you to the bedside, be delivered to and accepted by a telegraph company for transmission and delivery, and the company's charges be prepaid, and the telegram be never sent or never delivered through the carelessness and neglect of the company, and your loved one should die and be buried without your knowledge, although you suffer the most poignant grief, you cannot hold the telegraph company responsible in damages for its neglect of duty. If the same telegram, however, related to the sale of a $5.00 hog, and because of the telegraph company's neglect of duty, you lost the sale of the hog, you could hold the company responsible in damages for your loss, whatever it might be. Therefore, if telegraph companies in this state would serve their own interest, and they will, they will delay telegrams relating to matters held most sacred by man throughout the world, so that they can promptly transmit and deliver telegrams relating to hogs, cattle and the like. In the former class of cases they can neglect their duty with impunity, but in the latter class of cases they must pay the damage caused by their neglect of duty.

The reason given by the courts for this unjust rule of law is that the damage sustained is so indefinite that the jury cannot estimate the damages with certainty. Yet, the same courts permit recovery of damages for physical and mental pain and suffering resulting from broken legs, mashed fingers, and The same courts permit recovery of damages for grief and wounded feelings if a man refuse to marry a Woman whom he has promised to marry. The same courts permit recovery of damages for wounded feelings and indignity if a railroad conductor wrongfully ejects a passenger from a train in the presence of other passengers. recovery of damages for indignity, humilia tion and disgrace, if a newspaper falsely publish that you have been guilty

Other cases where the damage is equally uncertain and difficult of ascertainment, but recovery is permitted by the courts, might be multiplied, In the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Nevada, Texas, North Carolina, South Carolina, and perhaps others, recovery of damages is permitted in the class of telegraph cases mentioned, but recovery of damages in such cases is denied in this state. The juries in those states estimate the damages to be allowed. In suits for mental and physical pain and suffering in personal injury cases, for humiliation, indignity and grief in breach of promise to marry cases, libel and slander, wrongful ejectment from railroad trains and street cars, and in other like cases, the juries estimate the damages in this state. Why cannot the juries in Florida estimate the damages in the telegraph cases mentioned?

Are our juries less capable than those in the states mentioned? I say no. The proposed bill will remedy the defect pointed out. I shall introduce this or a similar bill in the legislature at the approaching session, at the earliest opportunity. I want you to help get it through both branches of the legislature. The telegraph companies will no doubt have their lobbyists at the capitol, to try and kill this bill or to so amend it that it will not be fit for anything. Their lawyers and retinues will be there with arguments, too, You and myself represent the whole people of Florida. If we do our duty to our constituents haif as well as the paid lobbyists and hirelings of the telegraph companies will do their duty to their employers, we will remedy this defect in our law resulting in injustice to the people of Florida.

Senator Stokes's bill is a good one and the arguments he advances for it are even better. It should have serious consideration and became a law.

How strange that in a country as wicked as this, a parent could hardly be found who would burn his child for even a second, and where public sentiment is so much against cruelty that if such a father were found, he would be confined to an insane asylum at once. Even the dumb brute is protected against cruelty, yet we have been led to believe that man was so much better than his God, who claims to be just, loving and parent-like, that I note by your Wednesday morning if an earthly parent were guilty of the of, he would be declared insane or put created man, and created a place big enough, and furnished coal enough, and could not die but must writhe and groan and scream out in the horrible agonies in such a place, without any hope whatever. If men knew what they were doing, would they blaspheme God's name in this manner? Nay, nay, This most horrible of blasphemies has driven thousands of the earth's best people away from God and away from the Bible for they surely thought these learned (?) D. D.'s were rightly interpreting the Bible. But now the truth is being preached and those who have been the "blind leaders of the blind" are most bitter in their fighting against the light, and they are gnashing their teeth. They fear for their loss of homage, and for their salaries which are already being cut off, for those who are getting their eyes open first have ever been the most faithful workers and largest contributors. Why don't these leaders, if Pastor Russell is misleading the people, show a like zeal for the eternal good of all and preach their gospel (?) free and without price: seats free, no collection, 1021 Payne St., Louisville, Ky .- "About four years ago I got some poison on my leg. My foot broke out in pimples and began to itch so badly I could not keep from scratching it bloody. The eruption spread all over my whole foot and leg up to the knee. My leg was as red as fire. The itching would keep me awake at night, and I scratched so hard the blood ran down over the whole leg. It would then burn severely. I could not stand a stocking or a shoe on that foot or leg it was swollen so badly. Every summer my leg would get so terribly sore and itched so badly I nearly went crazy. I had to keep it wrapped up all the time. I was scarcely able to walk and hopped around on one foot all summer. "I tried all kinds of salves and medicines but nothing cured my leg until one day I

PHYSICIAN DISAGREES WITH WASHINGTON HEALTH OFFICER

Editor Pensacola Journal: Among the Associated Press Items in your issue of March 23, appeared a report of the meeting at Washington of the Illinois vice commission from which I quote the following: "Dr. W. C. Woodward, health officer of the District of Columbia, urged the encouragement of early marriage." I am not sure that the public press is the proper medium for the discussion of the suppression of vice nor for the reports of the Illinois vice commission, whose activities appear to be directed towards the suppression of immorality among women, but I am sure that any physican who voices such an idea is either doing so, thoughtlessly, or else has never absorbed very much of the writings from which he obtained his medical education, to say nothing of his apparently blunted power of observation. Anatomists, long years ago, were unanimous on the point that human beings do not mature until they are twenty-one years old. If this is true, the mind cannot be mature at an earlier date than that fixed for the maturity of the body; and is it not a mistake for young people to assume the responsibilities of married life before they are mentally mature?

In other words, man, while being the highest type of animal, is still an animal, and it is only because of his being capable of mental superlority that renders him better than other animals, for without the mind he could hardly accomplish any more than a toad or a horse, and he would be a burden in the land. like the grasshopper. Of course, early marriage, that is the union of people "under age," has existed since history began and probably before; and will, no doubt exist for countless ages to come; but we have very few cases on record of early too. marriage being successful or right. If the health officer of the District of Columbia is anxious to aid the Illinois vice commission in the suppression of immorality, he could not have made a more grievous error, for history is replete with instances of immorality resulting from early marriage, and the newspapers of today have no difficulty whatever in keeping the readers supplied with items along this line. Psychologists, physiologists and soclologists are laboring with all their might to teach the world the power of the mind over matter, and it is to be hoped that their teachings will soon be productive of good results and that people will learn to arrive at a more mature age before they grapple with so serious a problem as the married condition.
