

MRS. WARFIELD ALARMED.

An Intruder in Her Stateroom Greatly Shocks The Governor's Wife.

The trip of the Governor's official party to Jamestown has been fraught with some unpleasantness and altogether disagreeable features. Shortly after retiring to her private stateroom on the steamer Columbia Thursday night, and shortly after having fallen asleep, Mrs. Warfield, the wife of the governor of Maryland, was awakened.

At first she believed that Governor Warfield whose room adjoins, had entered when fully awake she discovered that a stranger was in her room, and that he was a colored man. She realized at once that he was a sneak thief in search of jewelry. She screamed for assistance and the intruder escaped through the window, which opened on a narrow landing, which the upper deck of the steamer.

Governor Warfield was the first to be aroused and hastened into Mrs. Warfield's room. The excitement had quite unnerved her. Others were also aroused by the commotion and an immediate search was made for the intruder, but he had escaped through the window.

Dr. John M. T. Finney, the surgeon-general of the Governor's staff, was summoned and Mrs. Warfield's nervous condition was promptly remedied. While the remainder of the night was as peaceful as possible, Mrs. Warfield was able yesterday to participate in the many functions to which she was assigned with the Governor. It is supposed that the intruder secreted himself in the early evening, hiding himself under the bed. After being fully aroused that Mrs. Warfield had fallen asleep, he reached under the pillow in search of jewelry. It was the motion under the pillow that first awakened the sleeper, and that led to subsequent developments.

Every effort was made to find the intruder, but without avail. He is supposed to be one of the two dozen waiters engaged in an emergency by the Maryland Commissioners to the Exposition to meet the demands of the passengers. The officers of the Columbia after a comparison and an investigation are satisfied that the intruder was not a member of the staff of waiters or the crew of the steamer. Every man was found to have been at his post. Earlier in the night two colored men poked their heads into the stateroom assigned to Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Connelman, of Baltimore county. Mr. Connelman was just preparing to retire. She asked the men what they wanted. They immediately disappeared.

ASHES OF NAVAL OFFICERS.

Brought Home From Italy On The Cruiser Baltimore Yesterday.

The United States cruiser Baltimore arrived in New York yesterday from Manila, flying a "homeward-bound" pennant 465 feet in length. The cruiser left Gibraltar April 11 and had stormy weather on the passage. The Baltimore went to the New York navy yard.

The Baltimore brought the ashes of Rear Admiral Albert Kautz, who died in Florence, Italy, on February 5, and the body of Lieut. Stanley Woods, who died at sea between Singapore and Colombo on February 22. His death was caused by pneumonia. He was 27 years old and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1900. He acted as navigator of the Baltimore. His body will be sent to his home in Chicago.

Admiral Kautz's ashes were received at Naples. Funeral services had been held in Florence, Rev. Mr. Croom officiating. His ashes will be buried in Arlington Cemetery, Washington. Within a short time the Baltimore will go out of commission, and it is believed that she will be utilized for the laying of mines. Most of the sailors have completed their terms of service and will be mustered out and the officers will be allowed furloughs until further orders.

Funeral of Little Girl.

The funeral of little Mary Sears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bowie Sears, of West Annapolis, who died from having been burned, took place yesterday from West Annapolis M. E. Church. The services were conducted by the Rev. John L. Walsh, pastor of Maryland Avenue M. E. Church, and were largely attended. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes. The pallbearers were Messrs. Cheston and George Sears, two brothers of the little girl, Mr. Benjamin Sears, a cousin, and Mr. Joseph Cook. The remains were interred in the family burying ground at West Annapolis.

Michigan Holding Special Election—Celebrating Ninety-fifth Birthday—New Buildings at Cornell.

HONORING GEN. U. S. GRANT'S BIRTHDAY.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 27.—A special election is in progress today in the Fifth Congressional district of Michigan to fill the vacancy caused by the election of William Alden Smith to the Senate.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—General Daniel H. Rucker, father-in-law of "Phil" Sheridan and brother-in-law of Sherman, will be ninety-five years old tomorrow. Gen. Rucker has made Washington his home for many years. He served throughout the Mexican War as well as the Civil War.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 27.—With interesting exercises and in the presence of many invited guests the new buildings of the New York state college of agriculture were formally dedicated and opened today. Governor Hughes, in behalf of the state, handed over the buildings to Cornell University and the address of acceptance was delivered by President Schurman.

Lexington, Ky., April 27.—The spring meeting of the Kentucky Racing Association opened today and will continue through the coming week. Indications point to a successful week, and the officials of the track are pleased at the prospects. Many consignments of fast horses have arrived and there will be no lack of material with which to fill the races. A total of $14,000 in purses will be given, the average amount of the purses being $400.

Galena, Ill., April 27.—Following a custom inaugurated many years ago Galena today held a notable celebration of the eighty-fifth anniversary of the birthday of Gen. U. S. Grant. A large delegation from Chicago attended the exercises. The orator of the day was Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, who spoke eloquently of the services rendered the nation by the famous soldier whose home was in Galena. In addition to the anniversary exercises Senator Beveridge and the other distinguished guests attended the laying of the cornerstone of the new Felt-Carnegie library.

Cincinnati, O., April 27.—One thousand graduates of Yale University, members of the Western Association of Yale Clubs, gathered in Cincinnati today to renew acquaintance and to sing the praises of their alma mater. Business sessions of the association were held both morning and afternoon at the Sinton Hotel. Tonight the meeting closes with the annual banquet, which promises to be a notable event. Secretary of War Taft, as president of the association, will act as toastmaster. President Hadley, of Yale, Frederick N. Judson, of St. Louis, and other speakers, will be heard. Among the visitors are representatives of the Yale clubs in Chicago, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Louisville, St. Louis, Kansas City, Detroit, Denver, Columbus, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—For the thirteenth time the selected athletes of colleges and schools throughout a large section of the United States lined up on Franklin Field today afternoon to strive for honors in the annual relay carnival under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania. Year by year the number of contestants has increased until this year the list reached the record-breaking total of 1,400. The relay represented practically every important school east of the Mississippi river, with a scattering of men from beyond that point and Canada. Besides the Big Six of the Eastern universities there are a large number of smaller colleges, represented. The University of Michigan again heads the Western delegation, which is larger this year than ever before. The Southern representatives include teams from Georgetown, University of Virginia and the other strong institutions.

Circuit Court.

In the Circuit Court today Enoch Brooks, colored, was sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary for attempting to set fire to a barn. Several citizens, engaged in merchandizing, who had failed to get out their licenses at the time prescribed by law, pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs in each case. One merchant has had this spasm of forgetfulness three times.

The grand jury was discharged today, having completed its work for the April term of Court. The report of the grand jury was submitted and referred to the Colonial Theatre and also to the matter of lynching the colored man accused of assaulting Mrs. Reed. The report stated in substance that although the jury had attempted to find clues to the lynchers it had failed to fix the lynching upon any one party or parties connected with the affair.

The entire program is well arranged and will offer amusement and entertainment for all who attend. The musicals will be given in the auditorium of the new Academic Building at 8 o'clock.

NAVY'S TWO EIGHTS.

To Enter Poughkeepsie Race June 26—Interesting Announcement.

Probably the most interesting announcement of the spring season in collegiate athletics was the statement that the permission of Secretary of the Navy Metcalf for the midshipmen to enter the Poughkeepsie race on June 26, had been secured and the Naval Academy would be represented by a "Varsity" eight and a second eight if the entry of the latter in the Freshmen race would be accepted. The Annapolis oarsmen have done remarkable work for three seasons past under Coach Richard Glendon and their entrance in the big event creates a real element of uncertainty, besides the general interest which is excited by the doings of the naval wards of the nation.

That the Naval Academy has prospects of another strong crew this season is indicated by the excellent showing in the race already rowed this season—that with Georgetown on April 6, which the midshipmen won decisively. Still, Coach Glendon is not going to allow his charges to get the idea that they are sure of making good and that the hardest kind of work is not necessary in preparation of the race on the Hudson. It is realized that a slight thing is frequently all that is needed to change a crew with the brightest prospects into an aggregation that cannot be expected to approach the form expected of it and the realization of the desire of many seasons of entering the Poughkeepsie race has merely had the effect of making the crewmen get into their work with a spirit not before possessed.

It is generally known that Lieut.-Commander N. E. Irwin, a former football player and general athlete at the Naval Academy, now attached to the department of discipline, is largely responsible for obtaining the permission of the Secretary of the Navy to go to Poughkeepsie. This officer has been acting as representative of the Navy Athletic Association as to rowing this season and his personal interview with Secretary Metcalf, as well as his success in interesting the Academy authorities in the matter, had the effect of securing the desired permission.

As a matter of fact the permission to enter the Poughkeepsie race came before it was expected, and in some ways before it was wanted by Coach Glendon. The latter did not expect to advise the application for permission to go to Poughkeepsie, but he was told by the Secretary of the Navy that it depended largely upon the outcome of that race as to whether the crew would go at all. However, the permission of the Secretary, conveyed to Superintendent Sands, is tantamount to an order and there is nothing to do but to develop a strong crew as possible whether the Annapolis oarsmen are successful or not in their coming races.

The race with Yale on May 4 will be the most interesting aquatic contest which ever took place in local waters owing to the peculiar conditions of the water. It is very likely that it will be the last race between the two institutions, as Yale has been more and more loath each season to take the long and expensive trip to Annapolis, and both crews will, of course, do its utmost to enter the service of the United States. There has been some discussion of the exact status of the Yale crew which has increased the rivalry between the institutions.

TO TELL ABOUT HELL.

Pastor C. T. Russell, of Allegheny, Pa., to Lecture in Baltimore.

Pastor C. T. Russell, of Allegheny, Pa., will deliver his famous anti-fidelity sermon "To Hell and Back," at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, tomorrow afternoon.

Pastor Russell, as the author of "The Millennium Dawn Series of Scripture Studies" (of which there is over 2,000,000 copies in circulation) is editor of the Watch Tower and is the great expounder of the teachings that God's promises and the death of Jesus Christ guarantee a blessing to every man born of Adam. He claims to make no assertion that is not sustained by the Scriptures, and there is nothing in the Bible that he denies or doubts.

Pastor Russell thinks that a correct understanding of the subject of hell is almost a necessity to Christian steadfastness. For centuries it has been the teaching of "orthodox" men that hell, before creating it, man had created a great abyss of fire and terrors, capable of containing all the billions of the human family which he purposed to bring into being; that the abyss had named hell.

Pastor Russell says he will show in his lecture that the Bible does not teach such a doctrine, and that rightly understood it teaches nothing on this subject derogatory to God's character nor to an intelligent man. A number of people from Annapolis will leave here tomorrow to hear Pastor Russell's address.

A Good Idea to Save.

Do not fail to read the advertisement of the Annapolis Banking and Trust Company in this issue of the Evening Capital. The management of this bank are wide-awake and up-to-date business men, who do not hesitate to take advantage of a good thing when they see it, and as a result of this policy they have adopted the W. F. Burns Company system of pocket-book safes, which have proved such a success in building up savings accounts in all parts of the country, as evidenced by the fact that over 236,000 of these little safes were sold by the Burns Company to different banks throughout the country during the months of January and February, 1907.

SOME SIDELIGHTS ON CUBA.

JOSES AND CARMENS ARE IN PLENTY THERE.

The English Speaking Cook a Rarity—Freedom Under Cuban Flag—The American Flag Also Floats There.

CUBAN PRESS VALUES ADVERTISING SPACE.

Passports, permits and fadors cost exorbitant fees; and finally when one wished to leave the island he must not only pay a good round sum for the privilege of going away, but if he left his wife behind, he was required to present at the passport bureau her written consent for him to leave without her.

A modified passport system was in operation in Cuba until the American occupation, when on the recommendation of General Ludlow, January 5, 1899, passports and all inquisitorial requirements as to traveling were abolished. Today one comes and goes under the Cuban flag as freely as under the Stars and Stripes.

The visitor to Cuba during the tourist season—from October to May—sees many people he has heard about, famous or otherwise, and meets old acquaintances and sometimes makes life long friends. This is especially true of men or women who belong to some fraternal order or club, or Federation of Clubs. These usually wear a button or a pin, the insignia of the fraternity and when some other member of the same "log" sees it on his waister, he immediately gives the handshake or makes himself known.

We don't belong to a "log" or any "order" in the strict sense of the term, but through wearing a D. A. R. pin we made a number of friends who were D. A. R.'s from Vermont and other states in New England, and a few who were members of the League of the American Pen Women, and the Federation of Women's Clubs. The D. A. R. has a Havana Chapter that is doing good work there and all visiting daughters were welcomed everywhere.

Among "people talked about" as the press tersely has it, who were visiting Cuba during February and March, was Colonel Mann, the owner and publisher of "Town Topics," and the "Smart Set." Colonel Mann was a guest at the Ingleters Hotel, and was a conspicuous figure in the dining-room at several little dinner parties and suppers after the Jal Alai game. Another guest all winter season at the Ingleters, scarcely less prominent in the literary world than the Colonel himself, was Mrs. Dean, who is known as a writer for "Town Topics." She subscribes herself "The Widow," and there is scarcely a reader of this New York social magazine who has not read columns above the signature "The Widow," "Widow Dean," as she is familiarly known, has a son in the army, Captain Dean, on duty at Cienfuegos. During her sojourn in Cuba "The Widow" wrote several articles on Cuban social and political life on the Island. She has a facile pen and the articles were copied by the Cuban press.

Cuba is a great place for parasites, both animal and vegetable. The tropical climate, the rich soil, the prolonged dry weather, the almost continuous sunshine may account for this. Fleas are thick everywhere, and they are of the Irishman's flea type, when you think you have them, they are gone. The jump and hop about ad libitum and people get used to them, or don't seem to mind them. Lizards are almost as plentiful as fleas, and they are quite as ubiquitous. Walking along one sees these tiny little lizards in the flow gardens, on the palms, on the sidewalks, and they infest the tents at Camp Columbia. They resemble the chameleon, and are pretty little creatures and harmless. Tiny green frogs are also plentiful. They are frequent visitors to the tents at Camp Columbia and some of them come into such regularity that they become pests.

Our first experience in this line was to see a tiny frog which we thought was a china paperweight reposing fully holding down a package of stationery. We attempted to remove the "paper weight" in order to get some paper for our correspondence, when the creature showed us he was very much alive and began to blink his eyes and swell out his throat, showing resentment at the intrusion. Frogs by the dozens find their way into tents and often into houses in Cuba, and their presence is taken as a matter of course. The little lizards even invade the sanctity of one's sleeping apartments. Imagine our surprise and almost terror at rising one morning and finding a lizard quietly looking down at us as he crawled up the inside of our mosquito canopy, as though he had a perfect right there. The tents are floored and raised about six inches from the ground, but this does not deter the frogs and lizards from taking up their abode therein.

At 7.30 o'clock on Sunday and Monday evenings solemn vespers will be chanted. At 7.30 o'clock Tuesday will be the solemn conclusion of the Forty Hours'.

Md. Ave. M. E. Church.

At Maryland Avenue M. E. Church, the Rev. John L. Walsh, pastor, the usual services will be held tomorrow. In the morning at the 11 o'clock service the pastor's topic will be "What Jesus Did With the Scriptures." At the evening service at 7.30 o'clock, the subject for the sermon will be "The Conditions of the Entrance into the Kingdom of God." All are welcome.

WAS ANYBODY LOST ?

A Tug Boat Sunk at The Mouth of The Craighill Channel.

A tug boat with the letter "S" on the smokestack, sunk last night in the Magoty River at the mouth of Craighill Channel. The tug boat ran into the rocks of the new light house at the mouth of the channel and sunk after the collision.

The accident occurred near the home of Judge Henry A. Tydings, of the Orphans' Court, who reported the matter to the Capital early this morning. Judge Tydings said several Norfolk boats, coming up the bay went to the relief of the tug and it is not thought any lives were lost.

Three of the Norfolk steamers were laying alongside of the sunken steamer this morning, with their lifeboats out. Some apprehension is felt here as to the safety of those on board. Only the smokestack of the sunken steamer, or tug, whichever it may be, is visible above the water. The sunken boat was bound for Baltimore when she sank. She is about fifty yards from the new light house that is being built at the mouth of Craighill Channel.

Later information and investigation developed the fact that the sunken boat was an ocean-going tug heavily loaded and towing two barges. She is the "Radiant," Captain Burke, and is owned by the Standard Oil Company. She was off Sandy Point about 5 o'clock this morning when she was struck by a heavy sea on her port side, shipped and filled with water. Sheblew her distress signal and the Atlanta, the Chesapeake Steamship line, and the Tidwell, of the Chesapeake Railroad Company, went to her assistance.

The lifeboats were put out and all the crew of the Radiant, numbering seven men, also a black and tan dog, were rescued. The Radiant was built in Philadelphia in 1903. She is 81 tons and 74 feet long. She was heavily loaded with coal and oil when struck by the heavy sea.

The Shellfish Commissioners, who passed the scene of the accident this morning found the bulkhead of the Radiant, which was entangled electric wires, the tug having been equipped with electric wire attachment. She had two masts and a smokestack above water.

WESTERN MARYLAND WON.

St. John's College Represented in Battle of Eloquence at Westminster.

Mr. Alton S. Arnold, of St. John's College, represented the local college last night in the battle of eloquence in Westminster, where the ninth annual contest of the Oratorical Association of Maryland Colleges was held in Alumni Hall of Western Maryland College.

The judges were Mr. James H. Van Sickle, superintendent of the public schools of Baltimore; Mr. A. S. Cook, superintendent of the public schools of Baltimore county, and Mr. Albert S. J. Owens, State's Attorney of Baltimore city. They awarded the first prize, a gold medal, to Mr. John Hunt Hendrickson, of Western Maryland College, and the second prize, also a gold medal, to Mr. Lewin Wethered Barroll, of Washington College. The other two speakers were Mr. H. W. Lippincott, of Agricultural College and Mr. Alton S. Arnold, of St. John's College.

These contests were inaugurated at Western Maryland College in 1899 and this occasion had the special interest of beginning the circuit of the membership for the third time. Of the eight previous contests, Western Maryland College has won first place six times, Washington College once and St. John's College once.

ST. JOHN'S SPLENDID GAME.

The Collegians Defeat Their Old Rival, Johns Hopkins, at Base Ball.

St. John's defeated its old rival, Johns Hopkins this morning by a score of 7 to 6 in eleven innings. The game was loosely played, but well contested and exciting. Bosley started to pitch for St. John's and kept Hopkins without a run until one hand was out in the fifth inning, when he broke his finger on a grounder and was compelled to retire. Saltery succeeded him and pitched parts of two innings, but was wild and Carroll, who has had no experience as a pitcher, succeeded him, finishing the game.

St. John's took the lead in the first inning with three runs, scored on Harrison's two-bagger, a base on balls, a sacrifice and errors by Webb and Costello. Hopkins scored two runs in each of the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, and St. John's scored twice in the seventh and tied the score with one run in the ninth. Neither scored in the tenth, but in the last half of the eleventh inning, St. John's scored the winning run on Saltery's base on balls, Harrison's single and Carroll's double.

The score by innings:
Hopkins 0 0 0 2 2 0 0 0-6
St. John's 3 0 0 0 2 0 1 0-7
Batteries—Cole and Webb; Bosley, Saltery, Carroll and Austin.

The annual game of baseball between the married and single officers attached to the Naval Academy took place this morning, the latter winning by a score of 13 to 3. The game was a jolly affair and the bachelors were decided by the stronger players. The winners introduced a novel feature in having the pitcher and catcher change positions each inning. The scores were:
1 3 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 11
Single 7 1 0 1 2 1 0 0-13
Batteries—Symington and Fowler; Fowler and Symington; Smith and Graham.

Mary Manning.

Mary Manning, who has charmed her audiences in the past by the coquetry of her "Janice" and the sweetness of her "Rose Trelawney," will appear at the Colonial Theatre on Wednesday, May 1, in a new play called "Glorious Betsy," from the pen of Rida Johnson Young. The play is the love story of Elizabeth Patterson, of Baltimore, and the incidents concerned revolve around her courtship and marriage with Jerome Bonaparte, the young brother of Napoleon, Emperor of the French.
