

ACCIDENT IN MINE AVERTS DISASTER

Explosion Kills Four Score in Colorado Colliery.

ONLY ONE ESCAPES DEATH SENT SIGNAL OF DISTRESS

Carelessness Alleged to Have Caused Accident.

Primero, Colo., Feb. 2.—The disaster in the main mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, which claimed the lives of at least seventy-nine men, was caused by an explosion of fire damp, according to a survivor of the catastrophe on Jan. 23, 1907, in the same mine, in which twenty-four lives were lost.

The same authority holds that the explosion was caused by the ignition of gas from a flame originated probably through carelessness of some miner in direct violation of mine rules, either through the cramping of a cap for a fuse, or the lighting of a match surreptitiously carried into the workings.

Leonardo Virgen, a Mexican and the only surviving miner, who is supposed to have been working within a comparatively short distance of the point where the explosion originated, is unable to give a clear statement of what actually occurred.

Immediately following the report a column of dust and smoke poured out of the main entrance. Large pieces of timber were hurled more than 100 feet and so terrific was their force that a string of cars in the mine's mouth was blown off the track. The huge ventilating fans were at once put in operation and rescue parties were forced into the gas filled workings.

Cave-in Blocks the Entrance.

A huge cave-in at the mouth of the main slope blocked entrance at that point, but the rescuers followed the main ventilating shaft for several hundred yards, gaining entrance to the main slope through a crosscut.

When the relief party reached entry A-7, on the main slope, they found the first evidence of the destruction wrought. Here probably a dozen bodies were encountered, but the rescuers pushed on in the hope of finding signs of life. A little further on, near the mouth of entry A-8, the party came across Leonardo Virgen. As if waking from a deep sleep Virgen opened his eyes and said:

"Please, may I go home now?" Virgen has sufficiently recovered to join the watchers around the main entrance. The situation in the workings continues unchanged. Relief work is being pushed by frequent changes of shifts, the rescuing party having reached entry No. 12-A, about seven-eighths of a mile from the mouth.

A check of bodies recovered reveals that fifty have been recovered.

THIRTY-THREE BODIES FOUND

Many Lives Snuffed Out by Explosion in Kentucky Mine.

Drakesboro, Ky., Feb. 3.—Heroic as have been the efforts of scores of rescuers it is believed that it will be many hours before the Browder mine, near this city, will yield up the bodies of the last of the long list of men whose lives were snuffed out in an explosion.

Of the 100 men in the mine when the disaster took place it is now practically certain that more than a third perished. Except for the twenty-five who, many of them mangled and some fatally hurt, were brought to the surface within a few minutes after the concussion, the relief workers have not found a sign of life.

Through the night each lift of the cage brought bodies to the top of the ground, until thirty-three had been recovered. In the panic of grief about the mine shaft it was impossible to ascertain the number of men who escaped. It is said, however, that no man could have lived an hour in the mine atmosphere after the explosion.

MINE DISASTER IN MEXICO

Sixty-eight Men Killed and Many Injured by Explosion.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 3.—One of the greatest disasters in the history of Mexican coal mining took place in the Palau mine at Las Esperanzas. The toll of human life, which paid the penalty of negligence on the part of some miner, is officially placed at sixty-eight, while the list of injured numbers nearly as many.

The explosion occurred in the No. 2 shaft of the coal mine of the Esperanzas Mining company and is attributed to the ignition of gas from the flames of a cigarette of a Mexican, who was smoking contrary to the rules.

The victims were principally Mexicans and Japanese.

AFTER A STORMY SESSION

House Committee Votes to Favorably Report Ship Subsidy Bill.

Washington, Feb. 4.—After a short but torrid open hearing, replete with personal disputes and acrimonious utterances, followed by an executive session of an hour, also filled with dissension, the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries, by a vote of 10 to 7, voted to report favorably to the house the administration bill on ship subsidy.

WIRELESS MESSAGE SAVES CAPTAIN AND CREW OF FORTY-SIX.

SENT SIGNAL OF DISTRESS ASSISTANCE REACHES VESSEL JUST BEFORE SHE SINKS.

NEW YORK, FEB. 5.—Thanks again to the wireless and the international distress signal, "S. O. S." Captain Moore and his crew of forty-six men are safe on board the Mallory liner Alamo, bound for Key West, while their vessel, the steamer Kentucky, is at the bottom of the sea off Cape Hatteras.

It is another case of disaster averted by wireless and told to the world by the same medium. The Kentucky, a wooden vessel of 996 gross tonnage and 203 feet long, was bound from New York to the Pacific to carry passengers between Tacoma and Alaskan ports for the Alaska-Pacific Steamship company.

First news of the Kentucky's distress was received at the United Wireless company's station at Cape Hatteras. There the operator heard the "S. O. S.," quickly followed by this message: "We are sinking. Our latitude is 32.1, longitude 76.30."

Almost simultaneously the operator heard the steamer Alamo respond to the Kentucky's call for help, informing Captain Moore that the Alamo was making all speed to the sinking vessel's assistance. Thereafter no message was received from the Kentucky, indicating that water had interfered with the power, putting her wireless apparatus out of commission. The navy department at Washington in the meantime flashed wireless messages along the Atlantic coast, dispatching the battleship Louisiana and two revenue cutters to the scene, but word came from the Alamo that she had arrived first and had taken off all hands in safety. This is the message as received in New York by the United Wireless company from its Cape Hatteras station:

"Latitude 32.36, longitude 76.28. Steamship Alamo has just taken Captain Moore and crew of forty-six men from sinking steamer Kentucky. Water had already reached the fire room and steamer will sink before midnight. The Alamo is now proceeding to Key West."

The Kentucky was insured for $70,000.

PARIS RAPIDLY RECOVERING

City Fast Approaching Its Normal Appearance.

Paris, Feb. 5.—The fall of the River Seine is more rapid. The appearance of the city is approaching the normal, but the subway system is still inoperative. Water still remains in the tubes, which, after they have been emptied, must be cleaned and disinfected. The progress toward the restoration of the lighting, telephone and telegraph lines is slow, but noticeable.

The work of disinfection and other precautions against an epidemic of typhoid fever has been so thorough that some of the newspapers predict that Paris will not only escape contagion, but will emerge from the flood cleaner than ever before in her history.

UNION LOSES DAMAGE SUIT

Manufacturer Awarded Judgment Against United Matters.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 5.—"A new declaration of independence" is what Attorney Daniel Davenport calls the verdict of $232,000 rendered in the United States court by the jury in the suit of D. E. Loewe of Danbury against 200 hatmakers of this state. After having been out over two hours the jury ordered actual damages of $74,000 to the plaintiff, but as the suit was brought under the Sherman anti-trust law triple damages can be recovered.

A bill of exceptions will be filed by the defense and the case will be carried to the federal court of appeals and the United States supreme court.

TURKEY PREPARING FOR WAR

Buying Guns and Horses in Various European Countries.

Constantinople, Feb. 4.—The minister of war has dispatched ten officers to various European countries to buy horses and guns in anticipation of a war with Greece.

Four torpedo boat destroyers have also been ordered from Germany.

The Third army corps, stationed at Salonika, has been ordered to cross the frontier the moment the forthcoming Greek parliament accepts deputies from Crete into its membership. Such an act, Turkey considers, would be a repudiation of Turkish suzerainty over Crete and a sufficient cause for the immediate declaration of war.

Millionaire Ends His Life.

New Orleans, Feb. 6.—Blood dripping through the ceiling led to the discovery of the suicide of Henry H. Schwabacher, thirty-five years old, president of J. & M. Schwabacher, limited, at his store here. Mr. Schwabacher, who was a millionaire, had suffered from stomach ailments.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...

WHAT GOD REQUIRES OF US

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL, Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Text: "What Doth Thy God Require of Thee, but to Do Justice and to Love Mercy, and to Walk Humbly With Thy God?" (Micah vi, 8.)

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 13.—Are the words of our text true? Is it possible that the true religion of the Bible demands nothing more of us than is expressed in this text? What about its Jewish Law? What about its sin-offerings, its burnt-offering, its thank-offerings? What about the ten commandments? What about the digest of those commandments approved by our Lord Jesus. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy mind, with all thy strength, and with all thy being; and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself?" What about Church attendance? What about our responsibilities to our families? To the Church? To the poor? What about study of the Bible to know God's will? What about our responsibility for the heathen? What about baptism and the Lord's supper?

Indirectly, dear brethren, all the matters included in our questions and many more are included incidentally in the provisions of our text. Sometimes a whole sermon is preached in a few words. No one will dispute the reasonableness of the Divine requirement as stated in our text. Our Creator could not justly or with self-respect ask less than this of his creatures who would enjoy his favor. The interests of all demand that these principles should be required of every creature permitted the enjoyment of Divine favor to the extent of eternal life. Who ever fails to come up to these conditions would thus evidence his unworthiness of life eternal; his prolonged existence would merely be a prospering of sin and a menace to the happiness and righteousness of others.

But now let us see the scope of this Divine requirement, whose justice we have already acknowledged. We note the natural division of our text into three parts:

- (1) Doing justly;
- (2) Loving mercy;
- (3) Walking humbly.

The requirement of justice in all our dealings with our fellows, commends itself to every rational mind. It includes the whole Law of God. A brief statement of that Law which had our Lord's approval reads, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and all thy mind, all thy being and all thy strength; and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two propositions hang all the Law and the Prophets. It is but just that we should recognize our Creator as first; that we should glorify the One who gave us our being and all the blessings that come therewith; that we should be obedient to his righteous requirements that make for our own happiness and that of others. It is also but right that we should recognize the rights of others, as we would have them recognize our rights. The Golden Rule is the barest of justice. Not a half's breadth less would come within the requirements of our text. Do Justly. Come, then, let us reason together. How many of us do justly in all of life's affairs—in our relationship to our God and to our neighbor?

Begin at home. Let each one criticize his words and his deeds toward his parents; toward his children; toward his brothers; toward his sisters; toward his husband; toward his wife. Do we in all of our relationships of life, treat these who are so near and so dear to us according to the standards of justice, according to the Golden Rule? Do we do toward them as we would have them do toward us? If not, after making a beginning with the Lord, striving to render to him our homage and obedience, let us closely scrutinize every word, every act of the home life and see to what extent these can be improved upon and made more nearly just. The majority of people, we feel sure, will be surprised to know how unjust they have been toward those who are of the very nearest and dearest of fleshly relationships.

Follow the matter up and consider the justice or injustice of your words and deeds in daily life with your neighbors and daily associates. Do you invariably speak to them in the same words and with the same tone and gesture that you would approve if they were in your place and you in theirs? In matters of business do you drive a closer bargain with them than you would think just for them to make, with you? Or, on the other hand, do you ask of them higher prices for the services or materials you furnish them, than you would consider just and right if you were the purchaser and they the vendors? Do you watch your chickens that they do not commit depredations upon your neighbor's garden as carefully as you would wish your neighbor to watch his chickens as respects your garden, if you had one? Do you blow no more tobacco smoke in the face of your neighbor than you would like to have him blow in your face? Are you as careful about wiping your feet when entering his house as you would like him to be when entering your house? Do you treat all men, women, children and animals as kindly, as gently, as properly every way as you think would be just and right if you were in their place and they in yours? Do you speak as kindly ly of your neighbors as you would have them speak of you? Or do you hold up their imperfections to ridicule, as you would like to have them hold up yours? Do you guard your tongue so that you speak only things you would think proper for your neighbor to speak respecting you, if you changed places?

Simple Justice—Nothing More.

Do you not begin to see, dear friends, that what God requires of us is much beyond what the majority have been rendering? Do you stand appalled and tell me that it would be impossible to live fully up to that standard? I agree with you. And St. Paul agrees, saying, "We cannot do the things which we would." The Scriptures again agree and declare "There is none righteous, no, not one. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

What shall we do? Shall we say that because we are unable to live up to our own conceptions and standards of justice we will make no attempt to do so, but abandon those standards entirely? God forbid. We are weak enough and imperfect enough as it is. To ignore our best ideals of justice would be to take off all the brakes and permit the downward tendencies of our depraved natures to go rapidly from bad to worse—to carry us further and further from God and the standards of character which he approves. We can surely be content to do nothing less than our very best to live up to our own ideals and to raise those ideals as nearly as possible to the Divine standard.

What Would Be the Use?

Suppose we do our very best daily to measure up to our highest conceptions of our God-given ideals and standards, would God accept of this and count us worthy of his favor and of eternal life? Surely not. The Law of the Lord is perfect. Justice is Justice. Not the hearer of a law, not the well-wisher, receives the reward, but the doer, the obedient! Here, then, we find ourselves in difficulty. With our hearts, our minds, we approve God's Law and desire to be obedient to him, but find, as St. Paul says, that many things we wish to do we fail to accomplish; and many of the things we do not wish to do we cannot avoid. "We cannot do the things that we would." We approve the excellent demands of God's Law. We disapprove the imperfections of our own flesh. Like St. Paul, we cry out, "O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from this dead body?"—this body that is imperfect through inherited sin and weakness. With our minds we serve God's Law and approve it; but with our bodies we come short. What is our hope? How shall we be delivered? Can we prevail upon God to change the reasonable requirements of our text so that it shall read, "What doth God require of me but to will justly and do imperfectly? We can not hope for such a change in the Divine Law. Are we then hopeless as respects Divine approval and eternal life? (Romans vii, 17-24.)

The Gift of God is Eternal Life.

In our moment of perplexity we hear God's message "speaking peace through Jesus Christ our Lord." The message of peace is that what we could not do for ourselves in the way of lifting ourselves up to Divine approval God has provided shall be done for us through our Lord Jesus Christ. Our failure to keep the Law marks us as unworthy of eternal life, and worthy of the wages of sin—not eternal torment, but death. God in mercy concluded to offer us eternal life as a gift—because of our not actually meriting it under his legal requirements. Thus we read, "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans vi, 23). What we could not obtain legally under the Divine requirements God proffers to us as a gift. But the gift is a conditional one as expressed in the words, "through Jesus Christ our Lord." Only those who accept Jesus Christ as "the Way, the Truth, and the Life" may have God's gift of eternal life. Hence it will be seen that it is wholly a mistake to suppose that the heathen at home or abroad can get eternal life, the gift of God, by their own efforts. All the Scriptures condemn this doctrine, and only that we cannot have ourselves in obedience to the terms of God's Law, but that "there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" through faith in his name—through faith in his blood. (Acts iv, 12.)

But how is this done justly? and why does God so limit his gift of eternal life? God's Law requires himself and cannot change. He cannot require less than perfection. To do so would be to fill the Universe to all eternity with depraved and imperfect beings. God has a higher plan than this and declares, "As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways" (Isaiah lv, 9). He explains that his ultimate purpose is that there shall be no imperfect creature in all the Universe. All whose hearts are loyal to him and the principles of his government shall be perfected, and all others shall be destroyed in the Second Death. Thus, eventually, every knee shall bow and every tongue confess to the glory of God. Then every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, shall be heard saying, Blessing, and honor and glory and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever (Revelation v, 13).

You Are Bought With a Price.

Possibly God could have arranged some other way of dealing with sin and sinners which would not have required the death of Jesus as the ransom price, the purchase price, the redemption price for sinners. But the fact that this method was adopted by our great Creator assures us that no other method would have been so wise, so just, so beneficial. No other method would have so fully demonstrated God's Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power.

In brief, then, God's arrangement is that all of his human creatures shall have opportunity of full return to harmony with himself, provided they wish to do so, provided their hearts, their wills, are fully responsive to the letter and spirit of his Law—the requirements set forth in our text. God has provided in Jesus for the satisfaction of Divine Justice as respects all of the condemned race who desire to return to his favor.

We agree with all the orthodox creeds of Christendom that only repentance from sin and an endeavor to put it away from our thoughts and words and deeds, combined with faith in the Redeemer's sacrifice and a full consecration of heart and life to do the Father's will—nothing short of this attainment will gain the salvation which God is now holding out to mankind. To such the Apostle explains that the righteousness, the full demands of the Law of God, his full requirement, "is fulfilled in us who are walking not after the flesh, but after the Spirit" (Romans viii, 4). From the moment of our consecration and begetting of the holy Spirit God deals with this class as with sons. He trains them in the School of Christ, disciplining, chastening, proving them, testing the sincerity of their consecration Vows and the loyalty of their hearts. To those who prove faithful the great reward is promised—glory, honor, immortality, joint-heirship with the Lord Jesus Christ in his Millennial Kingdom and its work of blessing all the families of the earth (Galatians iii, 29; Revelation iii, 21).

Our disagreement with all "orthodox creeds" is in respect to what shall be done with the unsalvaged—with those who do not present themselves to God and who are not begotten again of the holy Spirit. Our creeds of the dark ages misrepresented the teachings of the Bible in respect to these and told us that they are all to be consigned for hundreds or thousands of years to Purgatory or for all eternity, in hell torment. Not such is the teaching of God's Word, but the very reverse, as we have previously shown. The Scriptures do not declare, in them and in their Seed shall all the families of the earth be drowned; but the reverse of this—that they shall all be blessed. All the deaf-blind eyes shall be opened. All the deaf ears of ignorance shall be unstopped. For the blessed thousands years of Christ's reign the world's uplifting or resurrection will proceed, while the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth. The angels on the plains of Bethlehem do not declare to the shepherds, "Fear greatly! for behold, we bring you bad tidings of great misery which shall be unto all people. Their message was the reverse of this: "Fear not; behold, we bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people" (Luke ii, 10). God who had a "due time" for calling natural Israel and who had also a "due time" for calling spiritual Israel, has a "due time" for making known the riches of his grace to the non-elect world of mankind. And the "elect" of spiritual Israel and of natural Israel are to be the channels of this Divine grace and mercy, which, during the Millennial Age, will flow as a river of salvation, to which all mankind will be invited to come and drink freely.

Love Mercy and Walk Humbly.

It may astonish some that God requires even more than justice, which is his legal standard. In his permission of sin and its wage of death he has shown the sinner his own mercy or love. And it is for the sinner's benefit and for the good of all, that God requires that all who will have the full benefit of his mercy shall be required to cultivate this mercy quality in their own hearts. As the sinner attempts to conform his life to the perfect standard and finds himself unable to keep God's Law and obliged to come for mercy to the Throne of Grace, he is informed that he can have that mercy only upon condition that he will exercise similar mercy toward those who trespass against him, in ideas and interests.

Humility is a quality very necessary to every creature. Pride is a foe which besets not merely the weak and imperfect, but which overcame the great angel of light, Lucifer, and transformed him from a faithful servant of Jehovah into Satan, the Adversary of God. We are glad, therefore, that Divine Wisdom requires humility as one of the conditions of our acceptance with him. This requirement assures us of the security of the Divine Empire against all treason in the future; for none will be admitted to the eternal life conditions either now or in the Millennial Age, except the humble. Let us heed then to the lesson of our text and conclude with the words of the Apostle, "Humble yourselves therefore, under the mighty hand of God, that by mercy each of you in due time" (1 Peter v, 6).

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary, (G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.) surpasses the old International as much as that book exceeded its predecessor. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built. The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The deficiencies have been rearranged and amplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The etymology, synonyms, pronunciation, have received unsurpassed scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fullness and clearness. In size of vocabulary, in richness of general information, and in convenience of consultation, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.
