NEW YORK EDITOR TO DISCUSS VERY INTERESTING SUBJECT

Man Well Known on the Platform and in Newspaper and Musical Circles to Speak in Frostburg Opera House.

P. E. THOMSON
BIBLE LECTURER OF NEW YORK

"Two Salvations, but No Second Chance" will be Editor Thomson's subject next Sunday evening, when he will give a free public lecture in the Frostburg Opera House.

In early life Paul E. Thomson showed decided tendencies along the lines of music and the Bible. His father, who was a Presbyterian minister, decided to educate his son along both lines. At the early age of ten the lad accepted a position at the organ. After completing a ten-year course in a Cincinnati college of music, he held positions in musical institutions in three different states. All this time his education along Bible lines was not neglected. Finally, in 1907, he resigned his position in music to enter evangelistic work. After a successful campaign he was invited to take the editorship of a paper with a large circulation. This office he has held ever since, and his influence has been widely felt. Concerning his abilities on the platform, one of our leading papers reports him as follows: "Mr. Thomson in a clear, logical and forceful manner, sets forth the Scriptures and throws a flood of light on passages which have been shrouded and befogged through human traditions and fables for centuries."

The "Second Chance" proposition is a lively one. His scriptural presentation of this subject will arouse the deepest interest in every thoughtful mind. The discussion will be from an unsectarian standpoint, the Bible alone referred to for authority. No doubt many will be anxious to hear it discussed.

JOHN BANNATYNE.

By His Death Eckhart Loses One of Its Noblest and Most Beloved Citizens.

A pall of gloom was spread over the neighboring town of Eckhart, last Saturday, when John Bannatyne, a well known and highly respected merchant of that community passed to his reward. Mr. Bannatyne had been in poor health for a long time, and his death, therefore, did not come as a surprise. Nevertheless, the community where he was so well and favorably known was none the less saddened, for the deceased was a man possessed of an unusually large number of lovable traits.

Of his noble character, a local newspaper correspondent has the following to say: "Christ was his ideal, his conscience his dictator. He was a loving husband, devoted son, kind father, affectionate brother, true friend, exemplary citizen and member of the universal brotherhood; memory of him will live and ever be sacred. Devoid of deceit, frank, honest and peace-loving, displaying many characteristics of Abraham Lincoln, and upon many occasions had been the peacemaker in local disputes."

Truly, no higher tribute could be paid to any man, and the good that he did among his fellowmen will live long after his bones have crumbled to dust.

He was aged only 39 years, 8 months and 20 days, and it seems hard indeed that one so young and possessed of so many good traits and influences should be called from this earth, where men of his noble character are so badly needed. But the Master knoweth best.

The funeral services were held at the local Baptist church, Tuesday afternoon, where Rev. Mr. Thomas paid a glowing tribute to the character of the deceased. The church was too small to accommodate the large number that attended, and scores were compelled to stand outside. Many beautiful floral tokens were extended by the fraternal organizations, church, Sunday school and personal friends. The Masons, Woodmen and Coal Valley Council, No. 75, Jr. O. U. A. M., attended in a body. The pallbearers were Alex. G. Close, Conrad Hohing, Hillyear Lancaster, Joseph and James Logsdon and William C. Noel; flower bearers, Joseph Stewart, Wm. Sulli van, Henry F. Cook, Enoch Logsdon, Finley C. Hendrickson, J. J. and J. C. Carter, Latimer Bradley, Wm. Sullivan, Herman Wagner, James Morgan, Wm. Rephorn, Hugh Watson, Maurice Myers, James Kenny, Ernest Seifert, Thos. Stewart and Wm. J. Burkett.

Deceased is survived by his wife and three young daughters.

TOWN POLITICS.

Political Pot Has Quit Simmering and is Now Boiling—Republican Primary Today and Citizens' Caucus Tonight.

Local politics and politicians are getting warmer as the hours go gliding by. The Democratic candidates for Mayor and Town Council are electioneering hot-foot for votes, especially for Republican votes, without which they cannot hope to be elected. They are promising about everything in the way of reform, as minority party candidates always do, but we have never known a single instance where a Republican community was benefited by electing Democratic officers.

We do not deny that Democrats are just as fit to hold office as Republicans, in many cases, but the Republican party can always be relied upon to put up just as good men as any party on earth, and besides that, the Republican party has done more for the good of this country than any other three parties that ever existed. Therefore, in order that it may always be in the best possible fighting trim for State and National contests, it should stick to its candidates at all elections. The defeat of good and loyal Republicans at local elections by members of their own party, is always a mistake from our Republican viewpoint, as such a thing leaves sore spots that sometimes produce disastrous results when bigger and more important battles are to be fought.

As the Spirit stated last week, the Democrats have nominated a pretty good ticket for Mayor and Council, but the Republicans will nominate one today just as good or better, and the nomination will be made by the fairest method—the holding of a primary.

Who the Republicans will nominate remains to be seen, but the result of the primary will not be announced before the last form of this issue of the Spirit will have gone to press. At this juncture, however, it looks as though John G. Meerbach will have no opposition for the Republican nomination for Mayor, and if such proves to be the case, the Republicans will have a candidate above reproach.

Mr. Meerbach made such an excellent record as a County Commissioner, as to entitle him to be honored with the town's highest office.

It is still fresh in the minds of the people of Allegany county how the board of Commissioners that preceded John G. Meerbach, Wm. Thompson and Walter T. Parker, paid large sums as interest on borrowed money when the county had a large amount of its own funds on deposit in banks and there was no need of borrowing. The Commissioners preceding the gentlemen named paid out $18,742.17 interest, most of which was a shameful and useless drain upon the county. But when Meerbach, Thompson and Parker took hold of the county's affairs, they refused to continue such shameful extravagance and mismanagement, and during their term only $748.00 of the people's money was paid for interest on borrowed money, a saving to the taxpayers of $17,994.17. And of the small amount that Meerbach, Thompson and Parker found it necessary to pay out a considerable portion even of that was on $1,605.00 borrowed by their predecessors in office.

An official record like that entitles honest John Meerbach to every Republican vote in this town, and also to a great many votes from members of other parties. He is a sane and safe man to fill the office of Mayor, and we hope to see him elected.

The Citizens' crowd, too, whoever they are composed of, may nominate a very good ticket, and no doubt they will. But just the same the Republican ticket will, we believe, be just as good or better than any of them, and on Tuesday, April 7th, all true Republicans should stand manfully by their guns and win a big victory for all of their candidates.

Do You Know Jacob L. Becker?

The police department of Cumberland yesterday morning received a letter of inquiry from John E. Becker, 568 Baltimore street, Hanover, Pa., asking them to assist in locating Jacob L. Becker, who left that city 15 years ago. The letter reads:

"Please inform the writer whether there is a man by the name of Jacob L. Becker in your city directory, or that you may know of him. He left Hanover and vicinity about 15 years ago, aged 56 years, he is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighed then about 145 pounds. Mr. Becker is wanted by his son to prove his adoption papers. He is supposed to be in Western Maryland or Ohio somewhere. Thanking you very much for any information you can give, I am yours respectfully."

The name does not appear in the Cumberland directory, and the police have been unable to learn anything of his whereabouts or find anyone who knows him.

Donations to Miners' Hospital.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Miners' Hospital Board, had a business meeting in the parlor of the Hotel Gladstone, last Friday evening. Matters pertaining to the welfare of the hospital were discussed, and the Auxiliary reports, with much gratitude, donations made to the hospital through efforts of that body, as follows: Nine bushels of potatoes and 37½ dozen of fresh eggs from the Frostburg schools, and a handsome clock from Jeweler Edward L. Betz.

Father of Mrs. G. L. Liningar Dead.

James McCart, father of Mrs. G. L. Liningar, died at his home in Baltimore, Monday morning, the 23d inst., aged 77 years. Death was due principally to old age, and was not expected by Dr. and Mrs. Liningar, as the doctor went to Baltimore only last week on account of the serious illness of his father-in-law.

Eckhart Man Promoted.

Thornton Dowden, of Eckhart, a brakeman on the C. & P. railroad, was recently promoted to conductor. Mr. Dowden has been in the employ of the C. & P. for several years and has proven himself an efficient and faithful employee. His numerous friends are much gratified over his promotion.

John Nairn the Victim Of Fatal Mine Accident

Very Exemplary and Popular Citizen of Frostburg Fatally Injured in the Mines.

This entire community was grief-stricken on Tuesday morning, the 24th inst., when word was received here that John Nairn was probably fatally injured in the Consolidation Coal Company's Mine No. 7. The particulars at first were not very complete, and when it was learned that the injured man was being hurried to the Miners Hospital there was still some hope that his injuries might not be as bad as reported, and that by the aid of medical and surgical skill his life might be saved. But alas! the death dew was already on his brow when he was received at the hospital, and he died at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, without regaining consciousness.

The accident that cost this good citizen his life occurred between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, and was caused by a large mass of rib or breast coal falling against a prop, which expelled the prop with great force from where it was standing, the end of it striking Mr. Nairn on the head and fracturing his skull.

Deceased was a son of Jacob Nairn, a well-known and highly esteemed citizen of this town. The mother of the deceased died more than 20 years ago, but in addition to his father, four brothers and one sister, he is also survived by a step-mother, a most noble woman, to whom he was much devoted, as are also the father, brothers and sister. The surviving brothers are Richard, Frank and Alphonso, of Frostburg, and James, of Glassport, Pa. The sister is Mrs. Frank Smith, of Mt. Savage, Md.

John Nairn was aged about 30 years, large and strong of body, and the possessor of a most generous heart and soul. He was a quiet, peaceable, honest and kindhearted citizen, and praise is heard for him on all sides, and much regret over his sudden and untimely death. The heart of one and all goes out in sympathy to those upon whom the blow falls the heaviest, the aged father, the kind foster mother and the loving brothers and sister.

Deceased was a faithful and exemplary member of the Roman Catholic Church, the Knights of Columbus and the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The funeral will take place Friday morning, the 27th inst., and the obsequies will be conducted according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Oscar Knieriem Loses Finger.

While working in the Consolidation Coal Company's No. 9 mine, Oscar Knieriem met with an accident by which the index finger of his right hand was so badly injured as to require amputation. The unfortunate young man is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Knieriem.

James Wade Dead.

James Wade, a well known citizen of this city, died at his home on McCulloch street, last Sunday, aged about 60 years. He is survived by a wife and several children. The funeral service was conducted at St. Michael's Catholic Church, Tuesday morning.

Slight Blaze on Park Avenue.

On Monday morning the "fire laddies" were summoned to a slight blaze on Park avenue, which was discovered about 8 o'clock, in the attic of a house owned by Wm. W. Wittig and occupied by Angus Cole.

The fire was speedily extinguished, and the damage to both landlord and tenant will not exceed more than about $30 or $35.

Dies in Butte, Montana.

Word has been received in Lonaconing of the death of John Powell, which occurred in Butte, Montana, Wednesday of last week. The deceased was a former resident of Lonaconing, having left there about ten years ago. Mr. Powell was born in England, coming to this country some time in the '50's. He was aged 80 years, and is survived by his wife, who is a sister of Mr. Calvin Shockey, of Lonaconing, three sons, Messrs. W. W. Powell, of Simpson, W. Va.; Henry Powell, of Phillipsburg, Pa., and John Powell, of Butte, Montana; one daughter now a resident of Montana.

THE WEATHERMAN.

Apreros of March.
By THE BARD OF ZION, N. D.

Ha! the frosty weatherman
Has come along with March,
Pinching us with fingers cold,
That make us cry out "Ouch!"
Winter still is lingering,
Dallying with Spring,
Fondling her 'most ev'ry day,
Delaying everything.

'Tis now a touch of Autumn,
And next a dab of snow;
Next there comes a south wind,
But soon a northern blow.

Followed up by snow or rain,
Perhaps a slippery sleet;
Next comes some fickle sunshine,
Alas! 'tis but a cheat.

Up here in North Dakota,
The old weather wizard
In a trice shifts the scene,
Bringing on a blizzard.

It takes indeed a little bit
Of nearly everything
That the weather can produce
To make the days of Spring.

You may grab your blunderbuss
And point at the poet,
But don't you shoot the weatherman—
Surely you might rue it.

There never was an ill wind,
But blew somebody good;
So curb your ugly temper,
And keep in perfect mood.

O, this freakish, fickle weather,
The poet's stock in trade;
Without it there was never
Any spring poem made.

So help enjoy the medley,
And sing the measured rhyme;
Soon or later there will come
The good old summertime.

WORTH SHOOTING FOR.

Fine Prizes This Week at Allen's Shooting Gallery.

For the week ending Saturday, March 28th, the following prizes are offered: First prize, a pen of White Wyandotte chickens, prize-bred birds of M. W. Werner's stock, Meyersdale, Pa. These are the same strain that won the blue ribbon at the Frostburg Poultry Show in January, this year. They are mated for breeding; 4 yearling hens and one cockerel; value, $15.00. Second prize, $3.00 cash; Third prize, $2.00 cash. Look in the window and see some prize birds.

Next week a spring suit of clothes, made to order, will be given to the one making the highest score.

Next door to the St. Cloud Hotel.—Advt.

News Concerning Oklahoma People Who Are Well Known Here.

The Spirit acknowledges receipt of a copy of the Southeastern Gazette, a neatly printed six-column quarto paper published at Durant, Oklahoma, by the faculty and students of The Southeastern State Normal School, of which Prof. E. D. Murdaugh, formerly of the Frostburg State Normal School, is President.

The paper is not only well edited and neatly printed, but contains some news of interest to people in Frostburg and vicinity, including among other things an account of a college play entitled "Bul-Bul," rendered in a Durant opera house on the 9th inst., by pupils of the Southeastern State Normal School, under the direction of Miss Isabelle M. Brown, of the department of public school music, assisted by Mrs. Joe Lou Adams, of the department of expression.

The play ending in a triple wedding, set for "next Tuesday at noon," was an immense success and the applause given to the ladies named. Indeed, quoting the Gazette, "to Miss Brown is due the credit for the splendid musical features and training, assisted by Mrs. Adams, who trained in the marches, drills and fancy steps."

Miss Brown is an Allegany county girl, a graduate of the State Normal here, and a daughter of Mrs. Margaret Brown, living at Woodland.

The copy of the Gazette in The Spirit's possession also contains much other interesting matter, including a very able poem and other interesting productions from the able pen of Prof. Murdaugh.

YOU WANT THIS, SURE.

Send Us Your Order Before It Is Too Late.

We have already received quite a number of orders for the scenic and poetic picture of Frostburg printed on our first page, last week. We will print a number of copies on fine cello plate, sepia-finish cardboard, suitable for framing, which will be sent to any address postpaid for 25 cents per copy. It will be a work of art turned out by the best print shop Frostburg ever had, for people who love Frostburg and its surroundings, and who believe in encouraging those who have been doing what they can to make the dear old town famous.

Send us your order now, as only a limited number of the pictures will be printed, probably no more than we get orders for within the next week.

4-2 THE FROSTBURG SPIRIT.

"Why Man Was Created."

Mr. Van Amburgh, of New York, Held a Large Audience Spellbound on the Above Topic Last Sunday Evening.

Many Express Themselves as Greatly Enlightened by His Discourse.

W. E. Van Amburgh, of New York City, gave a most interesting lecture on the subject, "Why Man Was Created," last Sunday evening, to a very intelligent and attentive audience, at the Frostburg Opera House. Mr. Van Amburgh is an eloquent speaker, and held the undivided attention of his hearers by the masterful way in which he presented his discourse. His deductions were clear-cut and to the point, with forceful illustrations, touched with occasional humor, which caused his hearers to smile with approval as they saw the force of his logic. We report in part as follows:

Man's greatest interest naturally centers in himself, for without himself he is nothing. He finds himself here upon this earth without any choice or volition of his own, yet having located himself he is at once interested in his surroundings, and feels very much at home. His enjoyments, desires, interests and even life itself are so intimately connected with this world that even a suggestion that he may have to leave it—die—causes him dread.

Endowed with a mind which delights in investigation, he finds a multitude of unexplored fields on every side, and one of his greatest pleasures is in searching out these hidden treasures of knowledge. But some of the questions of deepest interest to him seem to be still shrouded in mystery. Everywhere he sees evidence of a power beyond his conception, of a wisdom beside which his own is almost imperceptible, of a mentality and evident design of purpose which amaze him. He says, "There must be a God; only a fool could say there is no God. But who is He? Where is He? Why did He make this world? Why did He create man and give him such an inquiring mind, and then leave him here to grope in the dark? Why does He permit so much sorrow and sin in the world?" These are reasonable questions. Are there reasonable answers? Yes, there are.

God, who created man (Gen. 1:27) gave him his nature and home, also arranged for the full satisfaction of every proper desire of the mind and body which He has implanted in His creature. Food and raiment for his mind, wisdom and reason for his mind, and ability to enjoy and appreciate his God-given home.

In the Bible, and in it alone, we find the answers to these questions, and it meets the demands of the most searching tests. In it God has given full information with regard to His purposes and plans respecting mankind. The earth was especially created as a home for the human family (Isa. 45:18; Psa. 115:16; Mat. 5:5); man was specially created to have charge of this new domain of God (Gen. 1:26; 2:15; Psa. 8:3-9). This is not yet fully accomplished (Heb. 2:8) but in process of development (Isa. 46:9-11). This home for man is a commodious and beautiful one, and it would accommodate many, so God gave Adam the command to multiply and fill it with his offspring (Gen. 1:28).

God's first king of earth, Adam, proved disobedient and brought upon himself the loss of all his possessions, even life itself. This condemnation passed upon his children through inheritance (Rom. 5:12), hence we now see death working in all the human race (Rom. 5:14; 1 Cor. 15:26). But while 90,000 every day go down into death—sixty times as many as perished in the Titanic disaster—this does not mean that they go, or that any number of them go to a hell of fire and brimstone, as we have been taught to believe; nor that they go to eternal torment in any sense. I might say that the best exegesis I have ever read on this subject is a little book on hell by Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., which I understand can be had for the sending of a post card request. The dying human race does indeed go to hell, but it goes to the Bible hell, which is very different from the ordinary conception of that place. Why do they go there? Because their first father sinned (Jer. 31:29). But if this be true, how can God accomplish His original purpose of giving the earth to mankind?

The creeds tell us that it is God's purpose to transplant mankind to some far-off place called Heaven. But man does not care to go there. Even the saint who has been for years getting ready, will hurriedly send for the doctor if he gets sick. What for? To keep him from going to Heaven as long as possible. How is this? Because his God-given nature is stronger than his man-made creed. He does not want to leave this earth. He prefers it to any place he knows of.

"God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him might not perish, but have everlasting life." Where? Here, where God arranged for him. But how? By means of a resurrection. What use is there of a resurrection, if man is more alive when he is dead than when he was alive? Not a bit. But the Scriptures say that man is dead when he is dead (Ecc. 9:5; 3:19-21 R. V.; Psa. 6:5) If man has everlasting life from Adam, then the Scriptures must be wrong, for they say "In Adam all die." Again, what reason would Christ have to come to earth and suffer and die to give man something which he already possessed and could not get rid of, even if he should so desire?

Christ gave a few examples of what He purposes to do on a world-wide scale when He starts His wonderful Kingdom for which He taught us to pray (Matt. 6:10). He met a funeral procession taking a young man to burial. He wakened the man and returned him to his loved ones. On another occasion He awoke His friend Lazarus, who had been dead for four days, and returned him to his friends. Think you there was joy in those homes? Christ tells us it is His purpose to call forth all who have gone down to the grave (John 5:28, 29), that then He will be King over all the earth (Zech. 14:9). Satan will be bound (Rev. 20:1, 2), and every one may take of the water of life freely (Rev. 22:17). Who cannot pray for such a blessing, "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven?"

He Had No Further Use for Brains.

A surgeon with a great deal of originality, advertised that he was prepared to remove the brains from any individual's head and submit them to a cleansing process, after which, when they were returned to the skull, they would give better satisfaction in every way.

Becoming interested, a man called at the surgery and submitted his brains for renovation. After being placed under the influence of an anaesthetic, the contents of the skull were removed through the aperture and placed in a vessel, preparatory to cleansing.

"Now," said the doctor, "as it will take two or three days to do the job properly, I shall close the opening in the skull, meanwhile retaining your brains. You may call next Thursday, when you will find your gray matter in much better condition, and ready to be reset."

Apparently satisfied with this arrangement, the patient left with an empty skull, promising to return at the stated time and secure possession of his brains.

The time came and passed, and no patient appeared. After three or four more days, the physician, meeting an acquaintance of the patient's, bade him inform the now brainless man that his cerebrum, cerebellum and medulla oblongata were in first-class condition and awaiting their owner's pleasure.

Promising to do this, the acquaintance left the doctor, and a day or two later met the patient, to whom he delivered the surgeon's message.

"Oh, hell!" was the response, "I don't need brains anymore; I've decided to be a snob and ape the manners and customs of the rich."

More Land Available for Enlarged Homesteads.

Since the enactment of the enlarged-homestead law, 211,000,000 acres have been classified by the United States Geological Survey as non-irrigable and designated by the Interior Department as enterable under this law in 320-acre tracts, the limit being twice that allowed under the original homestead law. During the month of February 3,312,206 acres were thus classified by the Survey and thrown open to entry by Secretary Lane. The states most affected were Colorado, where 1,129,000 acres were so designated; Montana, with 1,590,000 acres; and Oregon, with about 300,000 acres.

Lands Restored to Entry.

Nearly 88,000 acres of land from a former oil withdrawal in Wyoming were restored to entry by the President during February on the recommendation of Secretary Lane, examination of the land by the United States Geological Survey having shown that it is non-oil in character. In Idaho about 2,000 acres of land, heretofore withheld from entry in power-site reserves, were found to have no power value and were therefore restored.

Operated on For Appendicitis.

Herbert Logsdon, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Logsdon, of Eckhart, underwent an operation in the Miners' Hospital, Monday, for appendicitis. Dr. Wilson, of Eckhart, was the operating surgeon, and Herbert is doing well.
