Every Kind of Fur Being Reproduced in Fur Cloth—Tailored Suits of Fur Cloth Made in Three-quarter Length Coats—Hat of Persian Lamb Cloth Trimmed With Black Lynx and Paradise Plumes—Black and White Combination Still in the Lead—Do Not Try to Assume the Manners and Customs of Another—Observe the Best in People and You Will Unconsciously Work Out the Best in Yourself—Excellent Recipe For Chicken Cake.

ALL FURS IMITATED IN CLOTH MATERIALS

The old truism that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery should be appreciated by the whole animal world at the present moment, for never before have furs been any more systematically and carefully imitated by the cloth manufacturers. Nor do the shops show any signs of emptying of their almost superabundance of materials which simulate fur in the richest and most satisfactory fashion. Practically every fur cloth is being reproduced representing all kinds and varieties of fur. Seal skin, Persian lamb, chinchilla, caracul, minks and even civet cat find their way into stunning outer garments and even into tailored suits. And this holiday time their output apparently has been doubled, the sudden cold, coming after so many comparatively mild weeks, greatly increasing their general demand.

Tailored suits of these fur cloths are usually made up in the three-quarter length, though there are women who incline decidedly to the shorter coats. In fact, some women insist on their coats being so short that there is every reason to fear the coat may soon disappear into the collar and cease to figure as a substantial affair at all.

One thing about these short coats is that they are difficult for the average woman to wear, especially when they are made up in the heavy imitation fur cloths. Some of them, so short that they might well be described as a bolero scarf or a shoulder cape, give to the modern silhouette a peculiarly disproportioned appearance. Only a young girl or a woman with a straight and extremely slim figure can dream of wearing the exaggeratedly short jacket. She had much better confine herself to the conventional and modest three-quarter length and be quite convinced that she is attracting no attention because of the unbecomingness of her attire.

Hats are being shown made up of these fur cloths. One stunning hat of Persian lamb cloth, and trimmed with black lynx and paradise plumes, was shown here recently by one of the ultra exclusive shops and widely imitated by the cheaper concerns.

Speaking of millinery trappings, a number of substitutes have already been created which threaten to have considerable vogue this coming spring. One particularly effective one is called algrettine, and is made from hair which has been treated after a chemical fashion. It comes in most of the vivid new colors, but is especially attractive in black and white. This combination of black and white shows no signs of any diminishing popularity, and already spring predictions are to the effect that it will be more widely used than has been the case this winter.

DO NOT BE AN IMITATOR.

By imitation is meant the obvious efforts of one individual to assume the same manners and customs as are individualized by another. In offering a warning against this practice of imitating people it is important to say at once that one should not cease close observation of other people lest this practice should result in involuntary imitation. But if a woman sees in another woman traits of character, grace of movement, or a charming manner which calls for admiration, she should certainly think over these things. She would not be wise, however, to make an immediate attempt to assume the same manners or ape the same grace. For this can never be done without an effort; and no matter how studied this effort may be, it will always be apparent.

The principal argument against imitation is found in the fact that what may seem charming in one person would be regarded as bare affectation in another. Then, again, it is not logical to suppose that one can change the habits of a lifetime and assume a new coat of manners, so to speak, every time an individual of distinction is met with.

The habit of observing and storing away in your mind all that is best in the people you meet is, however, a most beneficial one. To think over seriously what is charming in others is unconsciously to develop within ourselves a composite of ideas that will involuntarily be worked out. If we see the best in people we can only work out the best in ourselves. And the contrary is also true, for if we dwell constantly upon the shortcomings of others, so too will the same handicaps upon person al charm be apparent in us to those who observe us. Remember: To constantly imitate others is a confession of inferiority

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents in a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractive hair. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrant. ## FEEDING FUND IS EXHAUSTED

Announcement of Work for the Unemployed Brings Men by Thousands.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 30.—Funds for feeding the city unemployed here have been exhausted.

The question of taking care of men without work was considered yesterday at a conference attended by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., and members of the public welfare committee of the board of supervisors. The supervisors also discussed the problem. It was reported to the supervisors that nearly 1000 men had arrived in San Francisco Sunday, following the announcement that the city was to provide work for the unemployed at $1.50 for four hours' work. Announcement was also made that railroad laborers who had been working eight and ten hours for street railway and other corporations had been quitting and applying for jobs with the city.

An effort is to be made to care for a limited number of the men by furnishing work, but if they continue to arrive by the hundreds as they have within the last few days, the city authorities are at a loss as to just how they are going to face the situation.

The weird march of 200 organized unemployed men down the state continues, but factional strife has appeared among them. Last night the larger faction set in the city's pavilion at Visalia where they were fed. The rest pushed on to Tulare. The men marched in a pouring rain and many developed bad colds and signs of pleurisy.

A large Christmas tree and a distribution of candy, nuts fruit and appropriate gifts to all gave additional pleasure. #### PRETTY DANCING PARTY.

The second number of the Bohemian club winter series of dances, was held last night at the New Colonial Dancing academy and a more delightful evening of dancing could hardly be imagined.

The hall was decorated with streamers of red and green and under the bright lights and decorations a most genial crowd of club members and friends glided to entrancing strains of music played by Crawford's orchestra.

The dainty program of the club were used and contained the following dance numbers: waltz, "Night Owls"; two step, "Next Sunday at Nine"; waltz, "Sympathy"; two step, "Hungarian Rag"; waltz, "Songe D'Amour"; two step, "Two Much Mustard"; waltz, "A Thousand Kisses"; two step, "You Lost Your Dog"; Heel-tation waltz, "Sympathy"; Tango, "Pepper Pot"; moonlight waltz, "Dream of Heaven"; two step, "Everybody's Rag"; Harvard waltz, "If I were in love with you"; two step, "Two much ginger"; waltz, "I'll change to sunshine, Shawnee"; two step, "The International Rag"; moonlight waltz, "The shade of the old apple tree"; one step, "Red Pepper"; waltz, "Senora"; two step, "Tango Tokio". Several extras were enjoyed.

A ban has been placed upon rags by the club, but the charming music and pretty steps of the Harvard waltz, the One Step, Tango and Hesitation waltz has proven much more enjoyable to the club members and last night were encored a number of times by both the onlookers and those who were fortunate enough to know how to dance them.

Delicious fruit punch, salted peanuts and almonds were served during the evening at a booth in the hall and in the banquet room down-stairs a buffet luncheon consisting of the following menu: chicken and ham sandwiches, cakes, coffee, cube ice cream

UNIVERSITY HAS NEW SPORT PLAN

Gymnastic work and Indoor Forms of Athletics Part of Regular Curriculum.

"Flunked in rowing." "Need money to pay tutor in baseball." "Hope to get off condition in the 16-pound hammer throw soon," and like phrases will be passages in students' letters home from here when the University of Pennsylvania inaugurates its plan of making sports part of the regular curriculum.

Gymnastic work is already graded, but there are many students who do not take kindly to the indoor forms of exercise and are crowded out by the more promising athletes from participation as members of the various variety and class teams.

After two years of systematic gymnasium work a man of indifferent physique, may become proficient enough to be encouraged to try other forms to exercise. Under the new plan it is aimed to make these competitive in character, without too great a strain on the students taking part. Dr. R. Tait MacKenzie has completed a table of options covering the months of the college year as follows:

- October—Rowing and tennis.
- November—Cross-country track, gymnastic, football, indoor swimming, fencing and basketball.
- December—Cross-country, track, gymnasium, soccer, basketball, and wrestling.
- January—Track, gymnasium, boxing, fencing, basketball, baseball and wrestling.
- February—Track, gymnasium, boxing, fencing, basketball, baseball, and wrestling.
- March—Track, gymnasium, boxing, fencing, rowing, and wrestling.
- April—Track, gymnasium, boxing, fencing, rowing, wrestling, golf and cricket.

Under the plan of grading the various forms of athletic exercise men in their two final years in college would be entitled to elect some form of progressive exercise without necessarily being able to qualify as a member of the squad preparing for intercollegiate competition. Certain practical examinations must be required following definite instruction in order to give the course an educational character. Failure to pass these would count as a condition.

In basketball it is suggested that members of the junior and senior classes electing this sport be divided into teams playing two games a week. The two teams winning the largest number of games would meet in a final series for the championship. In track and field events two periods a week of a half hour or more each would be required under the direction of William J. Cromie, instructor in physical education, and George Orton, track and field coach, aided by class leaders.

Choosing cross-country running will have daily tests and a series of walks of five miles or more; each will be arranged for twice a week; in swimming the work will be made truly progressive and students will be required to pass a definite examination.

There will be class leaders in all forms of sports to work in conjunction with the instructors and coaches. It will be possible for even the weakest athletes to progress by careful attention to the details of the plans for exercising.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with headache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's uric waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The uric acid is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink.—Advertisement.

ERRORS OF DEATH-BED REPENTANCE OF SIN

Sins of a Lifetime Cannot Be Gotten Rid of by a Prayer.

A Misunderstood Text—It Has Encouraged Sinners to Continue In Sin. It is Folly to Think That the Murdered Sinner Goes to Eternal Torment, While the Murderer, Because of a Death-Bed Prayer, is Called to Heavenly Glory—A Misplaced Commemoration Led to the Error in Conjunction With Other Errors.

Pastor Russell.

Pastor Russell delivered an address here today, taking for his text Jesus' words to the dying thief. "Verily I say unto thee this day, thou shalt be with Me in Paradise." (Luke 23:43.) He declared:

Few of the Master's words have been so misunderstood as has this text. Its influence is greatly increased by the unscriptural thought that the dying sinner passes to everlasting torture. Those under the spell of that false doctrine cannot be relieved for wishing to escape from its terrifying influence. They grasp at the narrative of the thief, and hope that their departed had experienced a momentary repentance and said, "Jesus, forgive me," and straightway was carried to Paradise. The absurdity of the proposition is crowded out by the mingling of hope with love for the deceased.

The Pastor then described a funeral service which he once conducted. The deceased had been murdered in a distant mining region, and had died not being a member of the church, and by no means a saint. His poor widow's walls, which had interrupted the service, were caused, the Pastor afterward learned, by the thought that her husband had died without having had time to say, "God forgive me."

Who can blame the poor woman for this reasoning? Had she not been so taught by all the great creeds of Christendom? Had not her husband and herself been taking chances of having a moment for repentance before expiring? asked the Pastor. It is a shame that this wrong has been so long allowed to keep people from making peace with God in earlier life.

Repentance Always Proper, of Course.

Pastor Russell did not wish to be misunderstood as discouraging death-bed repentance or any other. He would, however, have all recognize that there are fixed rules of Divine Justice which forbid us to think that there is a hell full of unfortunates who died suddenly, with no opportunity for repentance; that there is a Heaven full of lucky vagabonds, carried to glory without change of heart or character, merely as a reward for a momentary prayer. Whoever sows a life of sin and self-indulgence will not reap glory, honor and immortality, but a more depraved disposition than that with which he was born.

The Dying Thief's Prayer.

The Pastor declared that the supposition that the thief asked to go to Heaven with Jesus, or that Jesus promised that he would go to Heaven the same day, is a mistake. Jesus did not go to Heaven that day, but to the Bible hell—Hades, Sheol, the tomb. He remained dead, St. Peter says, until the third day, when God raised Him from the dead. After His resurrection He appeared to Mary and said, "I have not yet ascended to My Father."

The Bible tells that Paradise was lost through Adam's sin, six thousand years ago; and that, as a result of Jesus' death, it will be restored during the Millennium. Since there was no Paradise when Jesus died, He could not have meant that the thief would be with Him there that day.

Evidently the thief had caught the thought that the grand, kindly character beside him was probably the Messiah. How to explain the circumstances he knew not, but he defied Jesus. Then with a measure of hope he said, "Lord, when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom, remember me."

The Pastor then showed that in substance Jesus' reply was, Poor thief, I appreciate your words; and when My Kingdom shall be established, I will reward your kindness. Notwithstanding this dark day, I am a King; and these experiences are necessary. Be it as you have asked—"Thou shalt be with Me in Paradise."

The difficulty has been with the translators' wrong thought and the misplacement of the comma. Punctuation is a modern convenience. There is none in the original Scriptures. Placing the comma where we have done leaves the passage thoroughly in accord with all the Bible. That passage leaves not a shadow of Scriptural support to the thought that prayer a moment before death changes the everlasting destiny of anybody.

The Pastor urged his hearers to get back to the Bible and away from the foolishness of the creeds. The Bible declares that a dead man is dead. But God's Word stands pledged for a future life for humanity. In due time both thiers will rise from the dead, to receive the blessings purchased by the Redeemer's death.

The Pastor Russell's letters for six weeks past have gone astray, and have just arrived. They will now be published daily until all the missing letters have appeared.
