

WHITING

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Davis, now of Chicago, but who formerly lived in Whiting and later on Lake street, Forsythe, will be sorry to learn of the death of their little daughter, as the result of a relapse from an attack of pneumonia.

The story hour will be conducted at the public library tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 to 5 p. m. All children under 12 years of age are welcome.

It will be acceptable news to the many friends of William Emmel of the East Side to learn that his condition is greatly improved. Although Mr. Emmel's one side is entirely helpless, as the result of paralysis, he is now

The installation of the new lights in front of the business houses on 119th street adds greatly to the appearance of the street and shows these merchants to be enterprising and up-to-date. Whiting did not yet succeed in getting her great white way, but these lights help greatly.

WHITING REJOICES IN VICTORY

Whiting, Ind., Feb. 29.—The Whiting Owl club's basketball team, which won the championship of Lake county last Saturday night at the Gary Y. M. C. A., defeating the Hammond five, is sighing for more worlds to conquer. Whiting as a city is jubilant over the victory and there is talk of getting up a celebration to make the victory a memorable one. You can get a smile out of Whiting almost any time you want it now because of the Owl club five's victory over their opponents in the south. "And take it from me," says Manager Helin of the Whiting baseball team, "we are going to have a nine this summer that is going to make somebody's feet sore to keep up with it."

ODD BIRTH COINCIDENCE.
William N. Nicholas, ex-auditor of Hendricks county, and his brother, O. E. Nichols, of Danville, held a joint birthday celebration Saturday, their ages being seventy-one and sixty years, respectively. An odd coincidence was noted in the births of the children of Thomas Nichols and wife. In the family were nine children. The oldest was Nanette Nichols, who was born on February 24, 1830. Just eleven years later to the day William was born, and eleven years after his birth

O. E. was born.

Three brothers and sisters were born between the births of Nancy and William, and also between William and O. E. Nichols.

FREE LECTURE. At Odd Fellows' Hall Sunday Afternoon at Three O'clock.

There will be an interesting service Sunday afternoon, March 3rd, at the Odd Fellows hall, East Chicago.

The International Bible Students' association has made arrangements for Mr. Calvin H. Swingle, Bible scholar and lecturer, to give a series of three lectures illustrated by a large painted chart.

The object of these meetings is not to establish any denomination or sect, but to stimulate Christians and others to a study of the Bible and to gain a clearer insight into God's holy word.

The association has arranged for similar lectures throughout the country and at all them seats are free and no collection is lifted. The first lecture will be on "Why Did God Permit Evil?"

Mr. Swingle claims that when rightly understood the Bible contains sufficient evidence to prove its own inspiration. "One of these evidences," says Mr. Swingle, "is the marvelous way in which the Bible answers the question of the permission of evil, and the answer the Bible gives when rightly divided, is so satisfactory, so in harmony with the Love, Justice, Wisdom and Power of God that it would seem to leave no room to doubt that the Bible, the channel through which the answer comes, is indeed the inspired word of God."

Christian and agnostic, Jew and Gentile, saint and sinner, will all be welcome.
